SIGNING MINUTES PERTAINING TO THE RENEWAL OF THE GENERAL COLLECTIVE AGREEMENT FOR UNIVERSITIES

With these signing minutes, the signatory federations have agreed on the renewal of the collective agreement pertaining to the terms of employment and salaries of people in the employ of universities that are members of the Finnish Education Employers, pursuant to the following terms:

1. VALIDITY

The collective agreement will enter into force on 1 April 2020 and will continue in force until 31 March 2022.

2. SALARY INCREASES DURING THE CONTRACT PERIOD

During the contract period, the following salary increases shall be paid:

General increases

1 August 2020	1.1%
1 June 2021	1.1%

Local amounts

1 December 2020	0.5%
1 December 2021	0.5%

Local amounts will be spent in a manner determined by the employer to the job-related salary element, including any job requirement bonuses valid until further notice or to the personal salary element.

The employer will discuss the spending and distribution principles of various allotments with the chief shop stewards before the employer requests the supervisors for proposals pursuant to the distribution grounds. Proposals attributable to job requirement levels are processed by an assessment group.

After the distribution of the local amount, the chief shop steward will be informed of the allotment of the amount to the job requirement levels, position requirement bonuses and personal salary element. In addition, information on the allocation of the amount by requirement level and the number of persons that the amount has been allocated to will be communicated.

The amount of the local amount on 1 December 2020 shall be determined by the salary amount of September 2020.

The amount of the local amount on 1 December 2021 shall be determined by the salary amount of September 2021.

The amount of the local amounts will be calculated separately for the salary amount of both staff groups.

With respect to training schools, the parties have agreed on a working group that discusses the changes necessitated by the Upper Secondary School Act and syllabus reforms. With respect to training schools, 0.25% of the local amount of 1 December 2021 will be spent on implementing the changes attained by the working group on 1 August 2021. If the working group does not reach consensus on the modifications necessary by 31 March 2021, half of the local amount will be distributed on 1 December 2021 as a general increase and half on 1 December 2021 in a manner determined by the employer to the job-related salary element, including any job requirement bonuses valid until further notice or to the personal salary element.

With respect to training schools, 0.25% of the local amount of 1 December 2021 will be spent in a manner determined by the employer to the job-related salary element, including any job requirement bonuses valid until further notice or to the personal salary element on 1 December 2021.

With respect to the Veterinary Teaching Hospital of the University of Helsinki, the parties have agreed on working-hour provisions pertaining to veterinarians. With respect to the Veterinary Teaching Hospital of the University of Helsinki, the local amount of 1 December 2020 of 0.5% will be spent on implementing the new working hours provisions.

The fees of shop stewards and labour protection delegates will be increased as of 1 August 2020 by 1.6% and as of 1 June 2021 by 1.6%.

Euro-denominated salaries (other than SSU salaries) will be increased to reflect the cost effect on 1 August 2020 (1.1%), 1 December 2020 (0.5%), 1 June 2021 (1.1%) and 1 December 2021 (0.5%).

The salaries of academy professors and academy researchers funded by the Academy of Finland will be revised with the general increase and local amounts. Otherwise, the remuneration of academy professors and academy researchers is determined at least in accordance with the funding decision of the Academy of Finland.

The increases will enter into force as of the date of increase or the salary payment period commencing after it.

Owing to serious financial reasons incurred by the universities from the coronavirus epidemic, the level of agreed-upon local amounts and their times of payment may be otherwise agreed locally with the chief shop stewards.

3. CONTENT AMENDMENTS

The following content amendments are implemented in the collective agreement:

Amendments to chapter 1 of the collective agreement:

End of employment (chapter 1 section 5) (effective 1 April 2020)

The lay-off notice period shall be 14 days for all employees.

Meetings of staff organisations (chapter 3 section 23) (effective 1 April 2020)

Salary shall be paid in accordance with section 7 of chapter 1 to an employee who has been granted job release on participating in meetings of the supreme executive organs of the Central Organisation of Finnish Trade Unions – SAK, the Trade Union for the Public and Welfare Sectors – JHL, the Confederation of Unions for Professional and Managerial Staff in Finland – Akava, the Negotiation Organisation for Public Sector Professionals – JUKO, the Finnish Confederation of Professionals – STTK, and Trade Union Pro – PRO, or in meetings of the executive organs and board of an organisation that is affiliated with JHL or JUKO and in meetings of PRO's agreement negotiating committee.

Regular working hours (chapter 4 section 1) (effective 1 August 2020)

Regular working hours shall average not more than 7 hours and 15 minutes per day, and 36 hours and 15 minutes per week. (In addition, other provisions that define working hours)

Regular working hours (chapter 4 section 1a) (effective 1 August 2020, in 2020: 5 hours available for additional work and 3 hours for training)

The employer shall have the opportunity to have at most 12 hours of additional work and at most 8 hours of paid training done for single hourly salary/year.

Additional work and training cannot be placed on Sundays, public holidays or the Saturday of a week with a public holiday.

Basic hourly salary shall be paid as compensation for additional work and training.

Additional work must be timed in such a way that it does not cause unreasonable inconvenience to an individual employee.

The need for additional work must be communicated as early as possible, and the employee shall have the right to refuse it on a case-by-case basis.

Flexible working hours (chapter 4 section 3) (effective 1 April 2020)

Pursuant to section 12 of the Working Hours Act, an agreement may be made in universities to adopt flexible working hour systems that are expedient for their operations, notwithstanding the daily flexible time and the maximum accruals of working time shortfall or excess stipulated in said Act. The length of the follow-up period shall be at most 12 months.

Maximum working hours (chapter 4 section 5) (effective 1 January 2021)

The review period for the maximum working hours shall be at most 12 months.

Compensation for unsupervised computer use and corrective measures chapter 4 section 20 (effective 1 April 2020)

If required by the monitoring and repair of a network and network services, standby duty can be agreed upon in writing between the employee and employer.

Additionally, mutually agreed technical amendments to chapter 4 due to the Working Hours Act (effective 1 April 2020)

Amendments to chapter 5 of the collective agreement:

Working time and work plan chapter 5 section 3 (effective 1 August 2020)

The annual working time of teaching and research staff falling within the scope of these regulations shall be 1,612 hours.

Content of work plan chapter 5 section 5 (effective 1 August 2020)

The allocation of 1,612 hours of working time to various fields of duty over the following academic year will be recorded in the work plan.

In the application instructions, section 5 subsection 2 on the maximum number of hours of contact teaching is amended to the level 452h/394h/141h.

Effects of agreement chapter 5 section 9 (effective 1 August 2020)

Particular attention shall be paid to monitoring developments in the volume of teaching done by staff whose workload is weighted towards teaching and in the use of various teaching loads within the total working time of 1,612 hours.

Entitlement to trade union training and maximum amounts of training section 4 (effective 1 January 2021)

The training may last for no longer than a total of 18 working days in a calendar year for a shop steward, and no longer than a total of 10 working days in a calendar year for other elected representatives engaged in co-operation functions.

Amendments pertaining to training schools (appendix 1)

Amendments pertaining to chapter 9 of the Veterinary Teaching Hospital of the University of Helsinki (appendix 2)

4. RECOMMENDATIONS

The parties recommend that the employer and employees together aim to promote the use of flexible working hours systems.

The parties recommend that the possibilities for a system be reviewed at each university where the employee has the right, subject to personal announcement, to be absent from work for at most five days.

5. WORKING GROUPS

Throughout the entire duration of the contract period and before the commencement of the negotiations of the new contract period, the following working groups shall work:

5.1. Statistics working group

The purpose of the statistics working group is to process a common knowledge pool and questions pertaining to the production and reliability of statistics. The working group shall investigate salary concepts used in connection with earnings statistics and other concepts as well as the requirements imposed by the collective agreement on earnings statistics. The working group shall co-operate with the collective agreement negotiators in matters pertaining to the development of statistics and, where necessary, provide specialist assistance to universities on statistics collaboration matters. Each party shall have the right to bring a statistical matter of their choice for the statistics working group to process.

5.2. Text working group

The working group shall review the content and meaning of the provision of section 2 of chapter 1 of the collective agreement and all references to legislation in the collective agreement and establish its position on these. In addition, the working group shall modernise the text of the collective agreement. The text working group shall also review the signing minutes preceding the current collective agreement.

5.3. Working group on career models and merit-earning methods

The task of the working group is to prepare a common situation overview of the various career models for researchers at universities and other ways of merit-earning in all staff groups. The working group shall determine the career models in use in reference countries. As part of the undertaking, the working group shall also investigate how remuneration in all staff groups supports career advancements in different stages of the career and how the universities encourage the development of new competence.

5.4. Working group on the maximum numbers of teaching hours and new teaching methods

The working group shall investigate the definition of contact teaching, the functionality of items pertaining to the maximum number of hours and the need to reform them, considering new teaching methods and means. The investigation also takes into account the impact on university teaching of the changes in higher education and the Digital Environments 2030 digital vision for learning at institutes of higher education.

5.5 Working group on the changes necessitated by the Upper Secondary School Act and syllabus reforms

The working group shall investigate, assess and prepare the amendments necessitated by the Upper Secondary School Act and the upper secondary school syllabus reform in such a way that the amendments can be implemented for the academic year starting on 1 August 2021. The working group shall also inspect the need for changes pertaining to upper secondary school resources and separate remunerations. The deadline of the working group is 31 March 2021. To implement the changes on 1 August 2021, 0.25% of the local amount of 1 December 2021 will be used. If the working group does not reach consensus on the modifications necessary by 31 March 2021, half of the local amount will be distributed on 1 December 2021 as a general increase and half on 1 December 2021 in a manner determined by the employer to the job-related salary element, including any job requirement bonuses valid until further notice or to the personal salary element.

6. PRINCIPLE OF ONGOING NEGOTIATION

The parties shall negotiate according to the principle of ongoing negotiation on a regular basis regarding any need for amendments to the collective agreement during the contract period.

7. FEES OF THE EVALUATION GROUPS

The chair and members of the evaluation group pursuant to the provisions on the salary system for universities are paid a fee, the amount of which for a member is 360 euros and for the chair 720 euros per year. The fee is paid for a period of 12 months in arrears. If the party concerned has not participated in the work of the group during a calendar month, the fee shall be paid to the person acting as a deputy for each calendar month as 1/12 of the aforementioned fee.

If a person serves in the aforementioned position in two or more groups, the fee shall be paid for a maximum of two groups.

8. ENTRY INTO FORCE OF THE AGREEMENT

This agreement shall enter into force on 1 April 2020 with the above exceptions.

The working hours provisions pertaining to the veterinarians at the Veterinary Teaching Hospital of the University of Helsinki (chapter 9) shall be applied no later than as of 1 January 2021. Until that time, working hours provisions and practices concerning veterinarians in the collective agreement for universities for 1 February 2018 – 31 March 2020 can be applied.

CHAPTER 1 GENERAL REGULATIONS

Section 1 Scope of the agreement

This agreement stipulates the terms and conditions of employment of employees of universities affiliated with the Finnish Education Employers.

The agreement shall nevertheless not apply to persons appointed by the university to serve as the employer's representative in determining the pay and conditions of service of employees who are subject to this collective agreement.

Application instruction: The university shall appoint staff from its central administration to serve as the foregoing employer's representatives, either by administrative decision or by special stipulation in the employment contract of the person concerned.

The agreement shall likewise not apply to visiting lecturers or other recipients of fees in teaching work, or to part-time hourly-paid teachers in training schools except insofar as specially agreed with respect to such staff.

Application instruction: This collective agreement shall not govern independent university units (e.g. the university press) with collective agreements of their own.

Section 2 Current benefits and statutory regulations

This collective agreement shall not govern benefits based on an agreement between the employer and the employee or on an administrative decision of the employer that were not based on the collective agreement for government in force until 31 December 2009 or on an appendix thereto.

Insofar as this collective agreement refers to statutory regulations, said regulations shall form no part of this collective agreement.

Section 3 Direction and assignment of work and the right to organise

The university shall be entitled to direct and assign work, and to engage and dismiss employees.

Both sides shall enjoy the unfettered right to organise.

Section 4 Employment and trial period

Employment contract must be made in written form taking into account the regulations of Chapter 1, Section 3 and Chapter 2, Section 4 of the Employment Contracts Act. Employer's representative is to ensure that the new employee is clear about labour organisation arrangements for their field and who the shop steward is.

Employment with an interruption of no longer than 30 calendar days or one calendar month in the service of the same employer university, some other Finnish university, an equivalent research institute or a university hospital shall be deemed continuous.

A temporary employment contract may be concluded on the grounds stipulated in the Employment Contracts Act and in legislation on universities.

A trial period may be agreed in the employment contract. The trial period shall comply with the Employment Contracts Act.

A trial period not exceeding six months may be agreed if the employer arranges special work-related training for the employee lasting for a continuous period of more than four months.

The trial period may be no longer than half of the duration of a temporary employment contract lasting for less than eight months (e.g. the trial period may not exceed 3 months in employment for 6 months).

Either party may rescind the employment contract with immediate effect during the trial period. The employment shall then expire at the end of the working day when the rescission was announced. Rescission may nevertheless not be based on the grounds referred to in subsection 1 of section 2 of chapter 2 of the Employment Contracts Act or otherwise on grounds that are inappropriate with regard to the purpose of the trial period.

Section 5 End of employment

Depending on the length of continuous employment, the following periods of notice shall be observed when the employer terminates an employment contract:

- 14 days if the employment has continued for no longer than a year,
- 1 month if the employment has continued for longer than a year but no longer than 4 years,
- 2 months if the employment has continued for longer than 4 years but no longer than 8 years
- 4 months if the employment has continued for longer than 8 years but no longer than 12 years
- 6 months if the employment has continued for longer than 12 years.

The following periods of notice shall be observed when the employee terminates an employment contract:

- 14 days if the employment has continued for no longer than 5 years, and
- 1 month if the employment has continued for longer than 5 years.

In the employment contract the employer and the employee can agree on a termination period different from what is stated above. The termination period of the employee cannot however exceed three months and it cannot be longer than employer's termination period. When the employer terminates the employment contract, the length of the termination period is however always at least as stated in section 5 paragraph 1.

The period of notice of termination shall begin on the day following the day of serving notice of termination.

Termination of employment shall otherwise comply with the procedure prescribed in the Employment Contracts Act.

A temporary contract shall expire with no period of notice when the agreed period or assignment ends. If the duration of the period or assignment has not been stipulated according to a calendar date, then the employer shall notify the employee without delay of the anticipated end of employment where this depends on a circumstance that is not known to the employee.

The grounds and procedure for dismissal and lay-off shall be determined in accordance with the Employment Contracts Act and the Act on Co-operation Within Undertakings.

The lay-off notice period shall be 14 calendar days for all employees.

The employment shall end as of the date from which the employee has been granted an old-age pension from the service of the employee's own employer or a full disability pension in Finland.

Application instruction: Changing of a partial disability pension to an old-age pension in accordance with section 52(1) of the Employees Pensions Act or section 49(1) of the Public Sector Pensions Act does not terminate the employment.

Section 6 Salary and salary payment

The salary criteria and minimum salary are governed by separate provisions in the section on the salary system for universities.

The salary shall be paid into a financial institution designated by the employee, from which it shall be available to the employee for withdrawal on the due date.

If the salary payment day of an employee falls on an ordinary Saturday, Sunday or public holiday, then the salary shall be paid on the ordinary weekday immediately preceding these days.

Any bonuses, supplements and benefits that are determined according to work done during the accounting period shall be paid by no later than the end of the calendar month immediately following the accounting period to which they relate.

All changes occurring in salary criteria during the employment shall take effect as of the start of the next calendar month or other salary payment period unless otherwise subsequently stipulated elsewhere in this agreement.

On termination of employment all salary and other remittances shall be paid into the employee's bank account on the next technically possible general salary payment day of the university.

Section 7 Salary payable for a period of absence

The salary payable to an employee for a period of absence shall be determined according to these regulations unless otherwise specially agreed with respect to some form of leave of absence.

The salary of a monthly paid employee shall include a salary element based on the job requirement, a salary element based on personal performance, a job requirement bonus, a guaranteed salary element, or a fixed rate salary. The salary shall also include other periodic salary factors, bonuses, supplements and additional fees payable in specified monthly instalments.

The salary for regular working hours of an employee working for hourly and piecework rates shall be determined in accordance with average hourly earnings for the immediately preceding completed salary payment period.

Application instruction: Average hourly earnings shall denote the average hourly earnings for working hours of the immediately preceding normal salary payment period (earnings for the salary payment period/working hours completed), including any bonuses for special conditions and shift work, but excluding any increases for overtime and Sunday work.

No deduction shall be made when a training school teacher fails to take timetabled additional lessons due to absence.

Section 8 Salary for an incomplete calendar month

If salary is paid to a monthly paid employee for an incomplete calendar month, then the salary for a calendar day shall be reckoned using the number of calendar days in each month as the divisor.

The salary of an employee on hourly or piecework rates for part of a month shall be determined according to the working hours completed and the agreed hourly rate.

Section 9 Salary of part-time employees

The salary payable to a monthly-paid employee engaged in part-time work shall be the proportion of the salary for a full-time employee that corresponds to the number of hours of part-time work.

The salary of a member of a teaching and research staff who is transferred from full-time to part-time work shall be paid as a proportion of the salary of a full-time employee reckoned in accordance with the foregoing principles according to the terms and conditions of employment, or for a training school teacher according to the teaching duties.

Section 10 Travelling expenses and per diem allowances

Compensation shall be paid in accordance with the current regulations of the National Board of Taxes for the travelling expenses incurred by an employee who travels at the employer's behest.

If the employer has ordered an employee to travel on a Saturday or Sunday, on a weekday public holiday referred to in this collective agreement, or on one of the employee's other days off, and the time devoted solely to travelling is not less than five hours, then a per diem travelling allowance of €55 shall be paid to the employee. Travelling time shall not be counted as hours of work.

No per diem travelling allowance shall be paid to employees in the managerial positions referred to in paragraph 4 of section 16 of chapter 4 of the collective agreement, or to employees who make their own decisions on the time of their work-related travel and on the working and free time arrangements pertaining to their hours of work. Neither shall compensation be payable in the event that the foregoing travelling day includes time that counts as working hours, or in the event that compensation is paid for travelling pursuant to special regulations otherwise than as stipulated in this agreement.

The employee shall use the cheapest available vehicle and mode of transportation, while having regard to any saving of time.

An employee shall be entitled to an advance payment of expenses incurred in work-related travel if the employer has not furnished the employee with a charge card or if such a card cannot be used for payment in the destination country. No advance payment of the per diem allowance shall be necessary for work-related travel lasting less than 24 hours.

Compensation for travelling expenses shall be requested by presenting a travel invoice to the employer within two months of completing the journey on pain of forfeiting the right to compensation and to any advance payment that has been made.

Additional compensation for foreign travel

If work-related travel ordered by the employer involves travelling outside of Finland, then the employer shall pay compensation for the immediately associated expenses of this travel as follows:

- 1) all travel surcharges such as airport taxes,
- 2) all charges for visas, medicines and vaccinations that are directly involved in the journey,
- 3) all essential and appropriately justified telephone and telefax expenses pertaining to work-related travel and working
- 4) safe deposit box hire charges associated with hotel accommodation, and
- 5) all other comparable mandatory charges.

Comment: The employer will have general travel insurance for work-related travel abroad, which will also include luggage insurance.

Section 11 Agreements of national labour and employer confederations and compensatory fines

The following current agreements of national labour and employer confederations shall be observed as part of this collective agreement:

The group life insurance agreement

The recommendation on prevention of substance abuse problems, processing of matters of substance abuse and referral for treatment at workplaces

If any amendments are made to the group life insurance agreement or to the recommendation on prevention of substance abuse problems, processing of matters of substance abuse and referral for treatment at workplaces, the amendments become part of the provisions of the general collective agreement for universities without separate ratification from the entry into force date of the agreements of national labour and employer confederations, unless one of the signatory organisations of the general collective agreement for universities separately proposes having negotiations on the amendment's entry into force. These negotiations must be proposed as soon as possible and no later than a month after the agreements of national labour and employer confederations has come into effect, in which case the amendments to the agreements of national labour and employer confederations do not enter into force and the contents and entry into force date of the agreement are defined by the negotiations.

When sentencing universities or local trade unions to pay compensatory fines in accordance with sections 7 and 9 of the Collective Agreements Act (436/1946), the maximum amount of the compensatory fine is 2.590 euros.

Section 12 Collection of membership dues

When so authorised by an employee, the employer shall withhold from the salary payable to an employee the membership dues of an association that is a signatory to the collective agreement for universities, and of any affiliates and subordinate trade unions thereof. The employer shall credit the membership dues withheld to the bank account designated by said association.

The association shall be required to provide the details necessary for withholding of membership dues in written form.

A certificate of the membership dues withheld shall be given to the employee for taxation purposes after the end of the calendar year or the end of the employment relationship.

Section 13 Settlement of disputes

Any dispute on the legitimacy, validity, content or scope of this agreement or on the correct interpretation of any point thereof shall be negotiated in accordance with this section.

Negotiation at work unit level

Cases of dispute shall initially be considered in negotiations between a supervisor or employer's representative and the employee and/or the shop steward or other staff representative who represents the employee.

Local grievance negotiations

If the matter cannot be settled through negotiations at work unit level, then it may be considered in local grievance negotiations between the employer's representative and the competent chief shop steward or other shop steward.

Negotiations between federations

If the matter cannot be settled through local grievance negotiations, then it may be submitted for negotiation between the competent federations that are signatories to the collective agreement.

Where so separately agreed between the federations, a point of dispute may be examined in negotiations between the federations without engaging in local grievance negotiations.

All disputes concerning the interpretation and application of local agreements on co-operation or labour protection co-operation shall also be handled in accordance with this section. Such disputes may nevertheless not be submitted to the Labour Court if inter-federation negotiations are unsuccessful.

Section 14 Procedures and time limits

Local grievance negotiations and inter-federation negotiations shall be requested in writing and the request shall specify the matter to be negotiated.

Both local grievance and inter-federation negotiations shall commence within three weeks of submitting the written request unless otherwise agreed, and shall be brought to a conclusion without delay.

Inter-federation negotiations shall be requested with four months of terminating local grievance negotiations on pain of forfeiting the right to raise the matter.

The negotiations shall end on a mutually specified date, or on the day when a party thereto announces in writing that the negotiations have ended.

A record shall be kept of local grievance and inter-federation negotiations, and shall be scrutinised in the manner agreed by the parties without delay.

No action shall be brought before the Labour Court unless inter-federation negotiations on the point of dispute have concluded. Any action shall be filed at the Labour Court within four months of the date on which the record of the inter-federation negotiations was scrutinised, but no later than within six months of the end of said negotiations under penalty of forfeiture of claims.

Section 15 Industrial peace obligation and consequences of breaching the agreement

No strike, lockout or other comparable action may be taken that is directed against any provisions of this agreement or that seeks to amend this agreement while this collective agreement remains in force.

Section 16 Protective clothing

The employer shall procure the protective clothing that must be used by the employees in their work, and shall be responsible for laundering and maintaining this clothing at locally agreed intervals.

The employee shall be furnished with special protective clothing for use in the course of work in very dirty, wet or cold conditions, which shall include such items as footwear, rubber gloves and protective or thermal overalls where necessary.

The supervisor and the employee shall jointly determine the need for protective overalls and clothing.

The employer shall defray the costs of any uniform or insignia for the employee that are expedient for designating the employee's status and duties at the workplace.

Comment: Sections 15 and 20 of the Occupational Safety and Health Act (738/2002) govern the provision and use of personal protective equipment and appropriate working clothes for employees.

Section 17 Limitations

The collective agreement for government shall govern the expiry of the right to claim receivables arising from employment or public service before 1 January 2010.

The right to claim receivables arising from employment after 1 January 2010 shall expire in accordance with labour law provisions governing limitations.

Section 17a Local co-operation agreements

Co-operation training, information and direct co-operation at the workplace are very important. An effective co-operation system supports the smooth management of changing circumstances, and improves the profitability of operations, quality of life at work, and general staff job satisfaction.

Local agreements may be concluded at individual universities on practical implementation of the Act on Co-operation Within Undertakings. The matters specified in a local co-operation agreement may, as necessary, include:

- The levels of co-operation: individual level, operating unit level, [definition/description: faculty/discipline unit/higher education institute within the university, department/division, autonomous institute, central administration and its subordinate units], university level.
- On establishing a co-operation committee, agreement shall be reached on its composition, term of office and ordinary business, and on the procedure for appointing its members. Such matters as the minimum number of meetings of the committee and other details specific to the university in question may also be agreed.

- The composition, term of office, terms of reference and appointment procedure will be agreed for any unit-level co-operation organs to be established.
- The manner of convening and meeting notification periods of co-operation organs (e.g. time in working days, written invitation or invitation by e-mail, agenda accompany invitation, and manner of providing accompanying background materials).

Section 17b Labour protection co-operation

Purpose of labour protection co-operation

Labour protection is part of strategic human resources management. It seeks to improve the health and safety of work and the working environment, and to bring about a workplace and job satisfaction that generate sustainable profitability.

Labour protection co-operation is interactive employer-staff collaboration seeking to enable employee participation and influence in matters concerning health and safety at work.

The context of these activities is the Act on Occupational Safety and Health Enforcement and Cooperation on Occupational Safety and Health at Workplaces (44/2006), sections 8 and 12 of the Occupational Health Care Act (1383/2001) and section 4 of chapter 13 of the Sickness Insurance Act (1224/2004).

Local labour protection co-operation agreements

Local agreements may be concluded at individual universities on practical implementation of labour protection co-operation. Labour protection co-operation agreements will settle the following and other matters, as locally required:

- scope of application (e.g. grant researchers and others working on university premises by permission of the university, and students engaged in training work etc.)
- labour protection commission (more than one if necessary): size, composition, any permanent specialist members entitled to attend and speak, procedure for convening meetings and business to be transacted
- division of workplaces required for organising labour protection co-operation
- arrangements for electing the labour protection delegates and deputy delegates, and the staff representatives on the labour protection commission
- election/appointment of any labour protection agents and their duties
- operating conditions of labour protection delegates

Election of staff representatives

The organisations representing the staff shall ensure that the elections of labour protection delegates and deputy delegates, labour protection agents and other staff representative members of the labour protection commission are arranged.

Section 18 Duration of the agreement

The agreement shall remain in force as of 1 April 2020 until 31 March 2022, and shall continue in force thereafter for one year at a time unless written notice of its termination is served by either of the parties no later than six weeks before said termination takes effect.

This agreement shall remain in force notwithstanding its termination until negotiations on a new collective agreement have been jointly found to have ended or until a negotiating party notifies the other parties in writing to this effect.

CHAPTER 2 REGULATIONS ON ANNUAL HOLIDAYS

Section 1 Scope

Annual holiday benefits shall be determined in accordance with the Annual Holidays Act (162/2005) and with this agreement.

The annual holiday regulations shall apply to persons who are subject to the working time regulations for teaching and research staff or to provisions governing training school teaching staff only in respect of holiday bonus.

Neither these regulations nor the provisions of the Annual Holidays Act shall in any way apply to part-time hourly-paid teachers at training schools.

Section 2 Definitions

The holiday season shall begin on 1 June and end on 30 September.

The holiday year shall be the calendar year during which the holiday credit year ends.

The holiday credit year shall begin on 1 April and end on 31 March.

A day of holiday shall be an ordinary weekday. For the purposes of this agreement, ordinary weekdays shall not include Saturdays, Sundays, ecclesiastical holidays, Christmas Eve, Midsummer's Eve, Independence Day or May Day.

A full calendar week shall expend five days of annual holiday. The same principle shall apply in periodic work. The provisions of the Annual Holidays Act referring to 12, 18 or 24 ordinary weekdays shall correspondingly denote 10, 15 or 20 ordinary weekdays for the purposes of this agreement.

A completed holiday credit month shall be a calendar month affording entitlement to annual holiday.

The first 25 annual holiday days granted to an employee each holiday credit year shall be statutory annual leave.

Application instruction: The annual holiday is granted based on yearly holiday earning so that the holidays of the oldest holiday year are always granted first. Otherwise holidays are granted so that first the holidays potentially transferred from the previous holiday year according to the annual holiday legislation are granted, then the statutory annual holidays of the holiday season of the holiday year, and after that other holidays. In the annual holiday accounting both accumulating and granted holidays and their nature have to be specified.

Carried-over holiday shall denote the part of the holiday comprising days of holiday from the holiday year that is carried over to be taken later.

Section 3 Length of annual holiday and leave-earning

The length of an employee's annual holiday shall be determined as follows:

if the employee has worked continuously for the current employer or for another university for less than one year at the end of the holiday credit year, then the annual holiday earned for each completed holiday credit month shall comply with the following table:

Completed holiday credit months	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10	11
Number of days of holiday	2	4	6	8	10	12	14	16	18	20	22

if the employee has been directly employed by the same employer, by some other Finnish university or comparable research institute, or by a university hospital for not less than one year by the end of the holiday credit year, or if the employee is entitled to twelve holiday credit months from the foregoing service relationships for the completed holiday credit year, then the employee shall be entitled to annual holiday reckoned in accordance with the following table for each completed holiday credit month of the current employment:

Completed holiday credit months	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10	11	12
Number of days of holiday	3	5	7	10	13	16	19	21	24	26	28	30

if the employee has completed not less than fifteen years of service earning entitlement to annual holiday before the beginning of the leave-taking period (by 31 May), then the annual holiday entitlement for each completed holiday credit month shall be reckoned according to the following table:

Number of days of holiday	3	6	9	11	15	18	22	25	28	31	34	38

Section 4 Calculation of 15 years' service

The calculation of 15 years' service required under point 3 of section 3 of this chapter shall include full-time service:

1. at the employing university in question
2. at another Finnish university
3. for the Finnish government, excluding time spent in conscripted or non-military service, crisis management and peacekeeping duties, or job release time other than sick leave or family leave taken in accordance with section 1 of chapter 4 of the Employment Contracts Act

4. in duties for another employer in Finland or abroad, insofar as these duties are of material benefit for performing the employee's current duties.

The seniority accruing from previous work experience shall be ascertained when the employment begins.

Application instruction: At the start of employment an employee shall give an account of any previous work experience that the employee would like to be taken into consideration when granting annual holiday benefits. Any further account affecting holiday entitlement that is subsequently provided shall be taken into consideration as of the time when this account has been submitted to the employer. An account submitted by an employee may also be taken into consideration retroactively where there is a valid reason for so doing.

Service shall denote the time when the employee has been working. A period of salaried absence from work, or a period for which benefits have been paid under the Sickness Insurance Act, shall also be deemed to constitute time spent working.

Full-time service shall be deemed to be any work averaging no fewer than 20 hours per week or any function not covered by working time regulations in which the volume of work is not less than 50 per cent of a total work volume. A proportional share of any part-time service shall be counted according to the working hours compared to those of a corresponding full-time employee.

Section 5 Holiday entitlement on termination of employment

On termination of employment an employee who reaches the seniority required for the holidays referred to in points 2 or 3 of section 3 before the employment ends shall enjoy annual holiday or holiday compensation for the current holiday credit year reckoned in accordance with said points.

Section 6 Time equivalent to working

In addition to the provisions of section 7 of the Annual Holidays Act, any days for which the employer has paid salary or compensation for lost earnings under this collective agreement (trade union training, staff training, time off in lieu of holiday bonus, time off in lieu of overtime compensation, working time bank time off etc.) shall be deemed equivalent to working.

Comment: A period of absence due to a work-related accident or occupational illness shall be deemed equivalent to working time when reckoning annual holiday benefits for no longer than 365 calendar days.

Section 7 Use of days of annual holiday in part-time work

In part-time work the number of days of holiday used shall correspond to the number of ordinary weekdays in the reference period, except where work is done with regularly reduced daily working hours, and the employee is on holiday for all of the working days in the reference period.

Section 8 Annual holiday salary of monthly paid employees

An employee shall be paid normal monthly salary under the employment contract for a period of holiday in accordance with section 7 of chapter 1 of the collective agreement, together with an annual holiday supplement.

The annual holiday supplement for each day of annual holiday shall be 1/250 of the total bonuses, supplements and additional fees referred to below that were paid or fell due for payment in the preceding holiday credit year.

- Holiday eve bonus
- Call-out pay
- Evening work bonus
- Saturday bonus
- Sunday bonus
- Standby compensation
- Night work bonus
- Shop steward and co-operation bonus
- Shop steward fee (deputy shop steward)
- Labour protection delegate fee (deputy labour protection delegate)

Section 8a Determination of annual holiday pay when working time and salary are changed during a holiday credit year

Annual holiday pay is determined according to annual holiday law section 12 when the working time and salary of the employee have changed during the holiday year and the change has lasted altogether at least four calendar month or 120 calendar days in one or several periods.

Application instruction: This regulation shall not apply if the reason for the working time amendment is a partial sick leave referred to in chapter 3, section 6.

The annual holiday pay is calculated using the following percentages:

- 9 per cent in the case described in section 3 point 1
- 13 per cent in the case described in section 3 point 2 and
- 16 per cent in the case described in section 3 point 3

If the changes occur only after the holiday year before taking the annual holiday or part of it, the holiday pay is calculated based on the monthly salary derived from the working time during the holiday year.

Section 9 Payment of annual holiday salary to monthly paid employees

The annual holiday salary shall be paid to an employee on the customary salary payment day.

The annual holiday supplement shall be paid with the salary for June or July.

Section 10 Annual holiday salary of employees paid otherwise than monthly

The annual holiday pay of an employee on hourly or piecework rates for whom a completed holiday credit month is determined under subsection 1 of section 6 of the Annual Holidays Act (i.e. 14 working days per calendar month) shall be 10 per cent or, after the employment has continued for not less than one year by the end of the holiday credit year preceding the leave-taking period, 12.5 per cent of all salary that has been paid or has fallen due for payment for working time during the holiday credit year.

The annual holiday salary of employees other than the foregoing shall be reckoned according to section 12 of the Annual Holidays Act.

The salary referred to in this section shall be paid with the salary payment for June when the employment continues. If the employment comes to an end, then said salary shall be paid with the salary payment for the final month of employment.

Section 11 Determination of annual holiday compensation

The annual holiday compensation of a monthly paid employee per day of annual holiday shall be $\frac{1}{21}$ of the salary payable under section 7 of chapter 1 of this collective agreement. The annual holiday supplement referred to in paragraph 2 of section 8 shall also be paid.

When the annual holiday pay is determined according to section 8a percentage calculation, the annual holiday compensation per holiday day is then the amount of annual holiday pay divided by the quantity of earned holiday days in the holiday year. Annual holiday supplement is not separately paid.

The annual holiday compensation of employees paid otherwise than monthly shall be the same as the annual holiday salary stipulated in section 10.

Section 12 Determination of annual holiday compensation in certain special cases

Annual holiday compensation for holiday that has been deferred owing to incapacity to work shall be determined as follows:

- 1) if it has not been possible, during the same calendar year following a leave-taking period, to grant annual holiday that was designated for said leave-taking period but that was deferred owing to incapacity to work, and said annual holiday has not been held over until the next year, then annual holiday compensation shall be determined in accordance with the salary for December, and
- 2) if it has not been possible, by the end of the next calendar year, to allow annual holiday granted outside of the leave-taking period that was deferred until the next calendar year owing to incapacity to work, then annual holiday compensation shall be determined in accordance with the salary for December of
- 3) said next calendar year.

Section 13 Carried-over holiday

The system of carried-over holiday shall be governed by section 27 of the Annual Holidays Act and by the following regulations.

Use of carried-over holiday shall require a written agreement concluded between the employer and the employee. This agreement shall specify the maximum number of days that can be saved and the date by which the carried-over holiday must be taken.

Any annual holiday exceeding 15 days may be saved. An employee shall nevertheless be entitled to save the portion of annual holiday exceeding 20 days if this causes no significant harm to the operations of the university.

The deferral of days of holiday as carried-over holiday shall be agreed by no later than the time at which the employee is given an opportunity to express a view on the time of the holiday.

Carried-over holiday shall be taken at a separately agreed time. If no agreement can be reached on the time of carried-over holiday, then the employee shall announce the time when the carried-over holiday shall be taken no later than four months before the carried-over holiday begins. Carried-over holiday shall be granted in full days unless otherwise agreed. Carried-over holiday shall be granted within no more than 5 years of the end of the holiday year from which the leave was saved from annual holiday.

Compensation for any carried-over holiday that has not been taken before the end of employment shall be payable in accordance with the regulations governing holiday compensation.

Section 14 Right to holiday bonus

When an employee is entitled to holiday pay or holiday compensation, then holiday bonus shall also be payable in accordance with the following regulation:

Holiday bonus shall be paid with the salary for July. Holiday bonus shall be determined according to the salary for the duties of the employee concerned in June.

In the event of any alternative agreement on the time of payment of holiday bonus, said bonus shall be determined according to the salary for the month immediately preceding the month of payment. If the employee concerned is on job release in June or in some other month in the foregoing manner, then holiday bonus shall be determined in accordance with the salary that would have been paid to the employee if the employee had been working.

Holiday bonus shall be paid at the end of employment for all days of holiday earned by the employee up to the time when the employment ends for which the employee has received no holiday bonus.

An employee beginning part-time retirement shall be paid holiday bonus for all days of holiday earned by the employee up to the time of part-time retirement for which the employee has received no holiday bonus. The holiday bonus shall be determined according to the salary for duties immediately prior to the time of part-time retirement.

If the annual holiday pay for a monthly salaried employee is determined by percentage, the bonus holiday pay is also then paid according to this section.

An employee who qualifies for the extended holiday referred to in point 3 of section 3 before the end of the holiday year shall also be entitled to holiday bonus with respect to these additional days of holiday.

No holiday bonus shall be paid to an employee who fails to complete any holiday credit months.

Section 15 Holiday bonus payable

The holiday bonus of a monthly paid employee shall be

4 per cent in the case described in section 3 point 1
5 per cent in the case described in section 3 point 2 and
6 per cent in the case described in section 3 point 3

of the salary for the month immediately preceding the month of payment of holiday bonus multiplied by the number of completed holiday credit months.

Application instruction: The basis for holiday bonus shall be the salary according to section 7 of chapter 1.

The holiday bonus of employees who are paid in other ways shall be 50 per cent of their annual holiday pay under section 10.

A person falling within the scope of the total working time system for teaching and research staff shall be paid holiday bonus for the number of days of annual holiday for which the person concerned would qualify under this agreement.

A full-time hourly teacher in a training school shall nevertheless be entitled to no more than the holiday bonus reckoned according to the number of hours corresponding to the teaching duties of the job in question on the same criteria as a person in full-time duties as a teacher.

Section 16 Exchange of holiday bonus for time off

The exchange of holiday bonus for time off may be agreed between the employer and the employee by no later than the end of April of the year of payment of holiday bonus.

The duration of time off shall be determined by deducting 4.4 per cent of the monthly salary from the holiday bonus for each working day that is exchanged for time off.

The time off shall be granted during the year of payment of the holiday bonus or the next calendar year. Holiday bonus may be converted back into cash if some pressing reason prevents use of the time off, for example where the employee so requests on account of illness.

Section 17 Postponement of annual holiday

An employee shall be entitled to postpone any annual holiday that coincides with the family leave referred to in section 1 of chapter 4 of the Employment Contracts Act on the same grounds as the employee's right to postpone annual holiday pursuant to section 25 of the Annual Holidays Act.

Section 18 Postponement of annual holiday and carried-over leave due to incapacity

Postponement of statutory annual holiday based on collective agreement based on incapacity is determined by section 25 of the law on annual holiday. The employee is required to present a medical certificate or some other reliable proof as defined by the employer when requesting holiday postponement.

CHAPTER 3 ABSENCES

Section 1 Sick leave salary supplement for monthly paid employees

In addition to the salary referred to in section 7 of chapter 1 of this collective agreement, a monthly paid employee shall be paid a sick leave salary supplement for the duration of paid sick leave. For each calendar day of sick leave this bonus shall be 1/365 of the total bonuses, supplements and additional fees referred to below that were paid in the preceding holiday credit year.

Bonuses, supplements and additional fees qualifying for inclusion in sick leave salary supplement:

- Holiday eve bonus
- Call-out pay
- Evening work bonus
- Saturday bonus
- Shop steward fee (deputy shop steward)
- Sunday bonus
- Labour protection delegate fee (deputy labour protection delegate)
- Standby compensation
- Shift work bonus
- Night work bonus

Application instruction:

The supplement shall also be payable together with salary for the following absences:

- maternity and temporary child care leave and rehabilitation
- incapacity to work caused by accident, occupational illness or violence
- if the employer has prevented the person from working due to illness
- in the cases referred to in section 20 of this chapter

Section 2 Assignment of per diem allowance to the employer

For the period of paid sick leave, maternity and parental leave, the entitlement to per diem, maternity and paternity allowance under the Sickness Insurance Act shall be assigned to the employer insofar as said per diem allowance does not exceed the salary paid to the employee for the same period.

The right of staff who are not entitled to annual holiday to a per diem allowance under the Sickness Insurance Act shall not be assigned to the employer for the period known as calculated annual holiday beginning on 16 June.

At other times, when teaching work at training schools has been discontinued due to holidays, the per diem allowance or the foregoing compensation shall be paid to the employer if the employee was entitled to a per diem allowance or other compensation but did not apply for leave owing to incapacity to work.

If no per diem allowance referred to in the Sickness Insurance Act is paid for reasons due to the individual employee, or if the sum paid is less than the employee's statutory entitlement pursuant to sections 16 and 17 of said Act, then the employer shall be entitled to deduct from the sick leave salary any per diem allowance or portion thereof under said Act that was not paid in whole or in part due to the employee's conduct.

If the employee receives some other per diem allowance or comparable compensation due to incapacity to work, either by law or on the basis of some insurance financed by the employer, then the right to compensation or to per diem allowance for the period of illness shall be assigned to the employer insofar as said per diem allowance does not exceed the salary received by the employee for the same period.

If sick leave salary has been paid before any of the foregoing compensations was paid, then the employer shall be entitled to draw the compensation or to reclaim said sum from the employee to the extent that this does not exceed the sum paid by the employer.

ABSENCES DUE TO ILLNESS

Section 3 Right to sick leave

An employee shall be entitled to be absent from work when prevented from performing duties due to a verified illness, disorder or injury.

Section 4 Employee's duty to notify

An employee who is prevented from working for the foregoing reasons shall be required to notify the employer thereof without delay, and to give an estimate of when the impediment to working will end.

The employee shall present a medical certificate or other account of the incapacity to work that is accepted by the employer. If the employee is attended by a medical practitioner designated by the employer, then the employer shall defray the costs of procuring the medical certificate.

Application instruction: During an epidemic, or when adequate physician services are not available, an occupational health nurse or other nurse may, in lieu of a medical practitioner, conduct an examination and issue a certificate of sick leave for no longer than three days at a time. Said certificate may only be extended by the same nurse.

Section 5 Length of paid sick leave period

The paid sick leave period shall be determined as follows:

Duration of employment	Maximum length of paid period
Under 1 month	1+9 ordinary weekdays at 50 per cent of salary
1 month – under 1 year	40 calendar days a year and thereafter 75 per cent salary, however, for no longer than a total of 365 calendar days

1 year – under 5 years	50 calendar days a year and thereafter 75 per cent salary, however, for no longer than a total of 365 calendar days
5 years –	60 calendar days a year and thereafter 75 per cent salary, however, for no longer than a total of 365 calendar days

If the incapacity to work continues without interruption beyond the end of the year, then sick leave salary shall be paid on the same grounds for the entire period of sick leave.

An employee shall be entitled to a single continuous period of sick leave not exceeding 365 paid days. The absence shall be deemed continuous in the event of any relapse occurring before the employee has been working for at least 16 days. The period of employer's liability for sick leave salary shall be reckoned as for a single continuous period of illness in such cases.

Example: A person has been absent due to illness and returns to work on 12 March 2010. This means that Thursday 1 April 2010 (Maundy Thursday) is the employee's 15th day at work. Following the Easter holidays the employee is absent from work in the following week, e.g. due to annual holiday or temporary child care leave (Tuesday 6 April – Friday 9 April). This means that Monday 12 April 2010 is the employee's 16th day at work.

The days known as calculated annual holiday shall not count towards the paid periods of 40, 50, 60 and 90 calendar days referred to in sections 5, 8 and 9 of this chapter for an employee who is not covered by the annual holiday regulations of this collective agreement, but the period of calculated annual holiday shall be included in the maximum period of 365 calendar days.

The seniority accrued by 31 December 2009 to employees who were working for the university on said date and whose employment with the same university has continued without interruption shall be credited in full.

If an employee transfers to the university from service at another university or at a comparable research institute or university hospital, then the foregoing previous work experience shall be included when calculating the duration of employment for the purpose of the period of paid sick leave.

Comment: The regulation in paragraph 2 of section 4 of chapter 1 governing interruption of employment shall apply when determining the duration of employment.

No right to sick leave salary shall arise, or sick leave salary may be reduced, if the employee has, either individually or with the help of others, intentionally caused an illness, disorder or injury or prevented healing thereof. The same shall apply when the employee has substantially contributed to the onset of illness through gross carelessness.

Application instruction: If an employee falls ill during a working day, then the employee shall be paid the working salary for said day and payment of sick leave salary shall begin from the first full day of sick leave.

The foregoing maximum duration of the paid period shall not depend on whether the cause of the continuous absence is one or more illnesses, disorders or injuries.

Entitlement to paid sick leave shall be determined in accordance with the decision on the per diem allowance.

Example 1:

The employee's employment has continued for longer than 5 years and the sick leave is continuous and lasts for longer than one year, e.g. from 1 June 2010 to 31 August 2011:

1 June 2010 – 30 July 2010	31 July 2010 – 31 May 2011	1 June 2011 – 31 August 2011
60 days at 100 per cent	305 days at 75 per cent	Employer has no duty to pay salary

Example 2:

The employee's employment has continued for longer than 5 years and the employee has several periods of sick leave, of which the last is continuing for the time being as follows:

- 2 December 2011 – 29 February 2012
- 1 May 2012 – for the time being (beyond the end of 2012)

2 December 2011 – 31 December 2011	1 January 2012 – 30 January 2012	31 January 2012 – 29 February 2012	Work- ing	1 May 2012 – 30 May 2012	31 May 2012 – 1 March 2013	2 March 2013 –
30 days at 100 per cent	30 days at 100 per cent	30 days at 75 per cent		30 days at 100 per cent	275 days at 75 per cent	No salary paid

Example 3:

The employee's employment has continued for longer than 5 years and the employee has several periods of sick leave, of which the last is continuing for the time being as follows:

- 2 December 2011 – 29 February 2012
- 1 May 2012 – 9 June 2012
- 1 September 2012 – for the time being (beyond the end of 2012)

2 December 2011 – 31 December 2011	1 January 2012 – 30 January 2012	31 January 2012 – 29 February 2012	Work- ing	1 May 2012 – 30 May 2012	31 May 2012 – 9 June 2012	Work- ing	1 September 2012 – 23 May 2013	24 May 2013 –
30 days at 100 per cent	30 days at 100 per cent	30 days at 75 per cent		30 days at 100 per cent	10 days at 75 per cent		265 days at 75 per cent	No salary paid

Section 6 Partial sick leave

The right of an employee to part-time sick leave and partial sickness benefit, and the temporary part-time employment contract upon which said right is based are governed by the Employment Contracts Act and by the Sickness Insurance Act.

The employee shall be paid the proportion of the salary for a full-time employee that corresponds to the number of hours of part-time work.

Sick leave salary shall also be paid for a period of partial sick leave so that, reckoned together with the foregoing salary for part-time work and partial sickness benefit, it totals 86 per cent of the salary constituting the basis for the salary payable for sick leave at the time when the employee's partial sick leave begins.

A period of partial sick leave shall not interrupt continuous full sick leave, but instead reckoning of sick leave salary of a person returning to sick leave from partial sick leave shall continue from the situation of the person concerned at the onset of partial sick leave.

A period of part-time work shall not count towards a period of sick leave, nor shall it have any bearing when reckoning sick leave salary.

Partial sick leave shall not affect the grounds for determining holiday bonus, and so this shall be paid on the basis of the salary for full-time work.

If a person takes annual holiday or holiday bonus leave during partial sick leave, then salary shall be paid for said period at the rate for full-time employment.

Comment: Pursuant to the Sickness Insurance Act, partial sick leave may be agreed for a period of 12 – 72 ordinary weekdays. The part-time work may be 40 – 60 per cent of the working hours of the full-time job in question.

Example: The salary forming the basis for the partial sick leave salary of an employee is €2,900. Under the arrangement referred to in the agreement, said employee's working hours are 40 per cent of full-time work, so the salary payable is €1,160. The employee receives €1,015 in partial sickness benefit. Sick leave salary of €319 is paid, making up a monthly total of €2,494 received, which is 86 per cent of the foregoing base salary of €2,900.

Section 7 Illness of an employee during partial sick leave

If an employee temporarily falls ill during the period of partial sickness benefit, the illness lasts for no longer than the day when the employee falls ill and the following nine ordinary weekdays, and the employee then returns to part-time work, then the employee shall be entitled to salary for the period of temporary illness in accordance with paragraph 3 of section 6.

If the employee's illness lasts for longer than the foregoing period of temporary illness, then the employee shall be transferred to full-time sick leave for the remaining period of eligibility for partial sickness benefit, and the employee's salary shall be determined in accordance with the regulations governing sick leave salary.

Section 8 Work-related accident and occupational illness

If the cause of incapacity to work is a work-related accident or occupational illness that has occurred in the course of the employee's duties, then salary for the time of absence shall be paid in accordance with section 7 of chapter 1 and section 1 of chapter 3 for a period of 90 calendar days.

Minuted note: Based on the employer's statutory work-related accident insurance, the employee is entitled to the foregoing statutory per diem allowance arising from a work-related accident or occupational illness for no longer than one year.

If the employee's salary exceeds the compensation paid under the Employment Accidents Insurance Act, then the employer shall compensate the employee for the shortfall.

Section 9 Incapacity to work caused by violence

An employee who has lost the capacity to work owing to work-related violence shall be paid salary for sick leave arising on account of said incapacity in accordance with section 7 of chapter 1 for a period of 360 days. Salary at a rate of 75 per cent shall also be paid for a further 180 days if the employee has applied for disability pension or cash rehabilitation benefit within eight months of the onset of incapacity to work.

Section 10 Compatibility of sick leave remunerations

The remunerations referred to in sections 5–9 above shall be mutually independent.

Section 11 Infectious diseases and voluntary residential care of intoxicant abusers

The employee shall be entitled to sick leave salary in accordance with section 7 of chapter 1 and section 1 of chapter 3 when the employee is ordered to refrain from gainful employment pursuant to section 57 of the Communicable Diseases Act (1227/2016), or is isolated pursuant to section 63 of said Act, and when an employee suffering from intoxicant abuse has voluntarily sought residential care after agreeing on such care with the employer.

Section 12 Salary when an employee is prevented from working due to illness

An employee who cannot be permitted to attend to his or her duties due to an incapacity to work arising from an illness, disorder or injury that substantially impairs the performance of such duties shall be entitled to sick leave salary for a period of absence in accordance with section 5.

Application instruction: An employee who is evidently unwell shall be referred for examination by a physician unless there is a prior report on the illness.

Section 13 Salary during rehabilitation

Salary shall be paid to an employee in accordance with the conditions and regulations governing sick leave salary for any period of medical rehabilitation, rehabilitation to maintain working capacity, rehabilitation examinations and rehabilitation investigations that is essential to restore the employee's working capacity.

No salary shall be payable when the rehabilitee receives cash rehabilitation benefit.

If a person is unfit for work when rehabilitation begins and said unfitness continues when rehabilitation ends, then said rehabilitation shall not interrupt the continuity of illness. A period of rehabilitation shall not be counted when determining the maximum period of paid sick leave if no salary was paid for said period of rehabilitation.

Section 14 Visits to medical practitioners and medical examinations

Visits to medical practitioners shall be arranged in a manner that avoids unnecessary loss of working time and shall be notified to the employer at the earliest opportunity. Job release shall be granted for the purpose of visits to a medical practitioner.

Application instruction: Visits to medical practitioners shall be scheduled outside of working hours. A medical practitioner may be consulted during working hours where so required by the acute nature of an injury or illness, where the visit cannot be arranged outside of working hours without unreasonable inconvenience, or where treatment services are not available in the district outside of working hours.

If the employer has arranged an occupational health service, then a justification shall be required for consulting any medical practitioner not designated by the employer. Such justifications include the acute nature of the illness, an illness that prevents travelling, or the substantial cost to the employee of obtaining a certificate of incapacity to work owing to examinations that fall beyond the scope of the employer's liability for compensation.

Examinations and tests ordered by the employer

An employee shall be required to furnish the employer on request with details pertaining to the health conditions for discharging the employee's duties. The employee may also be ordered to attend examinations and tests performed in order to ascertain the employee's state of health if this is necessary in order to ascertain the conditions for discharging those duties.

The employee shall be compensated for all essential expenses incurred in attending examinations and tests ordered by the employer.

The employee shall be granted job release for examinations and tests ordered by the employer. The time spent shall be counted as working time and compensation for lost earnings shall be paid in this respect. This shall also apply to examinations and tests that are conducted outside of regular working hours under the employee's schedule of work shifts.

Application instruction: Health screening of new employees and age-related examinations performed by the occupational health service shall also constitute examinations ordered by the employer.

Examinations and tests not ordered by the employer

The time spent visiting a medical practitioner or attending medical examinations shall not be counted as working time, but an employee shall be entitled to compensation for lost earnings under the following circumstances:

- when the employee attends for prenatal medical examinations that must be performed during working hours,
- when a visit to a medical practitioner is necessary in order to obtain a medical certificate required by the employer,
- when an illness or injury is diagnosed in the course of visiting a medical practitioner that requires a period of absence from work due to illness or that requires treatment measures,
- when an employee becomes incapacitated for work during the employee's work shift owing to the acute onset of an illness requiring a visit to a medical practitioner during the shift, this also applying to a dental illness requiring immediate treatment by a medical practitioner,
- for the time taken in a laboratory, X-ray and other corresponding examination, provided that the examinations have been prescribed by a medical practitioner and form part of a medical consultation for which the employer pays compensation for lost earnings, or provided that the nature of the examination requires its performance at a time stipulated by a medical practitioner.

No compensation shall be paid for lost earnings if the reason for visiting the medical practitioner is:

- a medical examination for general health control
- treatment of a previously diagnosed illness or injury, or monitoring of its progress, or customary dental treatment
- customary vision control at the practice of an ophthalmologist, or other examinations not requiring urgent treatment,
- physical therapy
- laboratory and X-ray examinations (other than those referred to in the foregoing point)

Section 14a Statutory medical examinations and public screening tests

Statutory medical examinations

The employer shall pay compensation for earnings lost in the time taken for statutory medical examinations and for essential travelling costs.

If the examination is conducted during the employee's time off, then the employee shall be paid a sum corresponding to the minimum daily allowance payable under the Sickness Insurance Act in compensation for extraordinary expenses.

A per diem allowance shall be paid under the conditions stipulated in the collective agreement for the time taken in a statutory medical examination that must be performed in another district.

Public screening and age-related examinations

If an employee is unable to take part in public screening and age-related examinations arranged by public health authorities outside of working hours despite requesting this, then compensation for lost earnings shall be paid for the time taken by the screening or examination, however one day at the most. This duty to pay salary shall not apply to any repeat or follow-up examinations.

Section 14b Donations of organs, tissues or cells

An employee has the right to receive time off work for participating in the donation of organs, tissues or cells.

Considering the regulations on the requirements for the payment of salary for periods of sick leave, the employee has a right to salary from the time required for the removal of the organs, tissues or cells and for any other related essential medical checks.

For the period of payed sick leave, the entitlement to per diem under the Sickness Insurance Act shall be assigned to the employer insofar as said per diem allowance does not exceed the salary paid to the employee for the same period.

The employee is bound to inform employer of his/her absence immediately after receiving the schedule of the operation or the essential medical checks related to the operation. At the employer's request the employee shall provide a reliable account of the grounds for said absence.

FAMILY LEAVES

Section 15 Paid maternity, paternity and adoptive parental leave

An employee who is entitled to maternity leave under the Sickness Insurance Act shall receive salary in accordance with section 7 of chapter 1 and section 1 of this chapter for a period of 72 ordinary weekdays reckoned from the onset of maternity leave.

An employee who is entitled to paternity leave under the Sickness Insurance Act shall receive salary in accordance with section 7 of chapter 1 and section 1 of this chapter for a period of 6 ordinary weekdays reckoned from the beginning of paternity leave.

Salary shall be paid to an adoptive parent for 72 ordinary weekdays reckoned from the start of the period of eligibility for parental allowance in accordance with the criteria referred to in paragraph 1 of this section. If the adoptive parents share said parental allowance, then the salary referred to herein shall be paid to only one of them at a time, and for a total of no more than 72 ordinary weekdays reckoned from the beginning of the period of eligibility for parental allowance.

No salary shall be paid for maternity, paternity or parental leave exceeding this duration.

A mother's new pregnancy and confinement during child care leave shall constitute a justified reason for discontinuing such leave.

Application instruction: The start of maternity leave must be announced before the intended beginning of said leave, pursuant to section 3 a of chapter 4 of the Employment Contracts Act.

Section 16 Temporary child care leave

An employee shall be entitled to temporary child care leave for not more than four working days at a time in the event of any sudden illness of the employee's child who is under ten years of age, or who is handicapped or chronically ill, or of another such child living permanently in the employee's home, in order to care for the child or to arrange such care. A parent not living in the same household as the child shall have the same entitlement. The persons entitled to temporary child care leave may take such leave during the same calendar period, but not at the same time.

The employee shall notify the employer of temporary child care leave and of its estimated duration at the earliest opportunity. At the employer's request the employee shall provide a reliable account of the grounds for taking temporary child care leave.

Application instruction: An employee shall not be entitled to temporary child care leave if the other parent is at home, unless said parent is tied to an activity that prevents attention to the everyday needs of the child or is otherwise unable to care for the child. The parents may take a total of no more than four working days of temporary child care leave for each particular case of child illness. This means that one possible way to share temporary child care leave, should this be expedient for the working arrangements of the parents, is by arranging for one parent to take care of the child in the morning while the other parent continues this care in the afternoon of the same day.

The entitlement to leave arises for each individual child and case of illness. A new period of temporary child care leave may be taken in the event that another child falls ill or the same child contracts another illness. The child's illness shall be verified in the same way as an illness of the employee. The employee shall also provide an account where required indicating that the child's parents have each taken temporary child care leave one at a time.

This section shall not apply to ordinary care arising from an injury or illness of a child who is disabled or chronically ill. The agreed provisions on temporary child care leave shall nevertheless also apply to a sudden onset of an illness such as a common cold affecting a child under 16 years of age who is disabled or chronically ill.

Section 17 Eligibility for salary during temporary child care leave

Salary shall be paid to an employee for no longer than four working days of temporary child care leave. The salary shall be paid in accordance with section 7 of chapter 1 and section 1 of this chapter. It shall be a condition of payment of salary for the period of absence referred to in this section that the absence was essential in order to care for the child or to arrange such care. It shall also be a condition of eligibility for salary that both parents are gainfully employed or that the person concerned is a single parent, and that the child's illness is certified in a manner corresponding to the certification required for illness of the employee.

Application instruction: A person who permanently lives separately from a married spouse and a person whose married spouse is prevented from caring for the child owing to residence in another locality for military service or reserve military training, illness, travel, work or studies or some other similar compelling reason shall also be deemed a single parent.

The references to the basis for sick leave salary mean that an employee shall be entitled to paid leave of absence on the basis of this section after a waiting period of one month.

Comment: Sick leave salary supplement shall be paid to an employee for the period of temporary child care leave.

Example: When Saturday and Sunday are days off for an employee, paid temporary child care leave may last from Friday to Wednesday, as said two days off are not counted when reckoning four paid working days.

Section 18 Serious illness of a child

After reaching prior agreement on such absence with the employer, an employee whose child suffers from a serious illness of the kind referred to in chapter 10 of the Sickness Insurance Act (1224/2004) and section 4 of chapter 1 of the Decree of the Council of State on implementation of the Sickness Insurance Act (30 December 2004/1335) shall be entitled to unpaid job release in order to participate in the treatment, rehabilitation, care guidance, adaptation training or other rehabilitation activities of the child referred to in section 2 of chapter 10 of the Sickness Insurance Act.

Section 19 Absence for compelling family reasons

An employee shall be entitled to temporary unpaid leave of absence from work enabling essential personal attendance for unforeseen and compelling reasons arising from an illness or accident that has befallen the employee's family.

The employee must notify the employer of said absence and of its cause at the earliest opportunity. At the employer's request the employee shall provide a reliable account of the grounds for said absence.

Application instruction: There is no exhaustive way to define the concept of family as used in this provision. In addition to persons living as a family in the same household, this notion of family shall include such individuals as their near relatives in ascending and descending line.

This means that an employee shall be entitled to temporary unpaid leave of absence from work, for example, in order to care for a parent, grandparent or grandchild, or the same relatives of a spouse.

OTHER ABSENCES

Section 20 Anniversaries and absences pertaining to close relatives

If a working day of an employee coincides with the employee's 50th or 60th birthday, wedding day, partnership registration day, funeral of a close relative, no more than one day arising from the death of a family member, and – provided that the absence is essential in order to care for a sick person or to arrange such care – a day of illness of a family member other than a child under ten years of age or a disabled child, or conscription day, then said day shall be a day off work with pay.

Salary shall be paid for the day of absence in accordance with the principles agreed for payment of sick leave salary in section 7 of chapter 1 and section 1 of chapter 3.

Application instruction: A close relative shall denote the employee's married spouse and children and the children of said spouse, the employee's parents or the parents of said spouse, and the employee's siblings.

A family member shall denote the employee's married spouse and children and the children of said spouse living in the same household. An adopted child and foster child shall also be deemed a child covered by the foregoing regulation.

The foregoing provisions governing a married spouse shall also apply to a common-law spouse and to a partner under the Act on Registered Partnerships (950/2001).

Section 21 Staff training

An employee participating during working hours in staff training arranged or commissioned by the employer shall be paid salary for the working time in accordance with section 7 of chapter 1 without deductions.

No deduction for timetabled additional lessons not taken, or for the fee of a principal or deputy principal, shall be made from the salary of an employee paid under the salary system for training school teaching staff when participating in supplementary training ordered by the employer. A full-time hourly teacher shall be paid according to the actual (timetabled) lessons for this period.

Section 22 National defence and crisis management training

An employee who participates in reserve military training, supplementary non-military service, in a national defence course, or in civil defence training pursuant to subsections 2 and 3 of section 16 of the Rescue Act (468/2003) shall be paid salary in accordance with section 7 of chapter 1 minus any reservist pay or corresponding compensation paid.

An employee called up for military reserve training, who is not paid reservist pay under section 102 of the Conscription Act (1438/2007) for a period of non-regular service, shall likewise not be eligible for the salary referred to above. Notwithstanding the foregoing, the employee shall nevertheless be entitled to full salary for the period of annual holiday.

An employee who is not entitled to annual holiday pursuant to provisions or regulations shall nevertheless be entitled to full salary for any period of interruption in school operations. No deduction for timetabled additional lessons not taken, or for the fee of a principal or deputy principal, shall be made from the salary of a teacher paid under the salary system for training school teachers. A full-time hourly teacher paid under the foregoing salary system shall be paid according to the actual (timetabled) lessons for this period.

Section 23 Meetings of staff organisations

Salary shall be paid in accordance with section 7 of chapter 1 to an employee who has been granted job release on participating in meetings of the supreme executive organs of the Central Organisation of Finnish Trade Unions – SAK, the Trade Union for the Public and Welfare Sectors – JHL, the Confederation of Unions for Professional and Managerial Staff in Finland – Akava, the Negotiation Organisation for Public Sector Professionals – JUKO, the Finnish Confederation of Professionals – STTK, and Trade Union Pro – PRO, or in meetings of the executive organs and board of an organisation that is affiliated with JHL or JUKO and in meetings of PRO's agreement negotiating committee.

Section 24 Attendance to local government fiduciary duties or service as a lay member of a District Court

No salary shall be payable to an employee who has been temporarily released from work in order to attend to fiduciary duties in local government or to serve as a lay member of a District Court for said period of release.

CHAPTER 4 WORKING HOURS PROVISIONS FOR UNIVERSITIES

Employees other than teaching and research staff falling within the scope of the total working time system and teaching staff in training schools

Section 1 Regular working hours

Regular working hours shall average not more than 7 hours and 15 minutes per day, and 36 hours and 15 minutes per week.

Regular working hours may also be arranged with no more than 9 hours per day and 45 hours per week.

Regular working hours may be arranged with no more than 10 hours per day and 50 hours per week by local agreement.

Hours of work shall be balanced to the maximum average referred to in paragraph 1 over a period not exceeding 12 weeks (or 26 weeks by local agreement).

Annual holidays and other days off shall be deemed to correspond to daily working time of 7 hours and 15 minutes and weekly working time of 36 hours and 15 minutes. Any balancing of working time required by the current averaging period shall be implemented during time spent at work.

Efforts shall be made when scheduling work shifts to avoid needlessly short shifts and division of shifts.

Section 1 a Deviation from regular working hours

The employer shall have the opportunity to have at most 12 hours of additional work done and assign at most 8 hours of paid training for single hourly salary/year.

Additional work and training cannot be placed on Sundays, public holidays or the Saturday of a week with a public holiday.

Basic hourly salary shall be paid as compensation for additional work and training.

Additional work must be timed in such a way that it does not cause unreasonable inconvenience to an individual employee.

The need for additional work must be communicated as early as possible, and the employee shall have the right to refuse it on a case-by-case basis.

Section 2 Periodic work

In addition to the jobs and workplaces referred to in section 7 of the Working Hours Act, and where necessary for smooth working arrangements and locally agreed in accordance with section 2 of the regulations of this collective agreement governing local bargaining, periodic work may also be used in lieu of the regular working hours referred to in section 1 of this chapter.

Comment: The Veterinary Teaching Hospital of the University of Helsinki is a veterinarian service in the sense of paragraph 3 of subsection 1 of section 7 of the Working Hours Act.

Hours of work in periodic work shall average no more than 108 hours and 45 minutes over a work period comprising two consecutive periods of three weeks (totalling 2 x 3 weeks). Working time may nevertheless not exceed 117 hours in the work period.

The hours of work may also be arranged to average no more than 72 hours and 30 minutes over a work period comprising three consecutive periods of two weeks (totalling 3 x 2 weeks). Working time may nevertheless not exceed 80 hours in the work period.

Section 3 Flexible working hours

Pursuant to section 12 of the Working Hours Act, an agreement may be made in universities to adopt flexible working hour systems that are expedient for their operations, notwithstanding the daily flexible time and the maximum accruals of working time shortfall or excess stipulated in said Act. The length of the follow-up period shall be at most 12 months.

Under the flexible working hours system employees shall manage their own balancing of working hours within the reference period specified by the system. Any time off taken as full work shifts shall be agreed with the employer.

Section 4 Daily breaks

Under section 24 of the Working Hours Act, an employee must be given a regular break of not less than one hour during a work shift, during which the employee shall be free to vacate the workplace. The employer and the employee may agree on a shorter break, which shall nevertheless be at least 30 minutes.

An opportunity to take a meal during working hours may be arranged in lieu of the rest period in periodic work and during night work and shift work.

The provisions of the foregoing paragraphs 1 and 2 shall also govern part-time work when the daily working time exceeds six hours. Otherwise the daily breaks in part-time work shall be determined where necessary in the course of other scheduling of working time.

When overtime occurs in periodic work the employee shall also be given a 15-minute break to be counted as working time immediately after the end of regular working hours, and an opportunity to take a meal at the most suitable intervals, which shall not exceed four hours.

Section 5 Maximum working hours

The review period for the maximum working hours shall be at most 12 months.

Section 6 Overtime and additional work

Additional work is any work not constituting overtime that is done at the request of a supervisor in addition to the regular working hours referred to in section 1, to part-time working hours, and to working hours that have been reduced in accordance with paragraphs 1 and 2 of section 17.

Overtime is any work done at the request of a supervisor in addition to 7 hours and 39 minutes per day and 38 hours and 15 minutes per week, and to regular working hours in periodic work.

Notwithstanding the provisions of the foregoing paragraph 2, overtime in weeks when New Year's Day, Independence Day or May Day fall on a day other than Saturday or Sunday shall be any work done in addition to 30 hours and 15 minutes, and in addition to 106 hours and 45 minutes in a 3-week period, and 71 hours and 10 minutes in a 2-week period in periodic work.

Overtime for a part-time employee shall be any work done at a supervisor's request that exceeds the maximum daily or weekly working hours referred to in paragraph 2.

Application instruction: When offering additional work to an employee on part-time pension, partial early old-age pension or partial disability pension, attention shall be paid to the terms and conditions of the partial pension and partial early old-age pension and to the impact of earnings from working on the pension payable.

Extra time and over time in the flexible working hours system is calculated such that for a particular day only the actual time worked is taken into account. Over time is therefore only the work that exceeds the regular daily working hours plus extra work. For the day in question, the flexible working hours balance does not change. Work carried out at the employer's initiative on weekly days off is counted as either extra work or over time.

Section 7 Compensation for additional work

Compensation for additional working hours shall be granted as equal corresponding time off in lieu in a manner that does not disrupt the operations of the university. Efforts shall be made to grant time off in full working days. The time off shall be granted by no later than the end of the calendar month next following the month in which the additional work was done unless an agreement has been reached to grant said time off at a later date, for example at the time of annual holidays or some other time off.

If the time off cannot be granted in the foregoing manner, then cash compensation shall be paid for the additional hours at the basic hourly salary rate.

Compensation shall be paid for additional hours in periodic work at the basic hourly salary rate, or corresponding equal time off in lieu shall be granted where separately agreed.

Comment: Granting of time off in lieu in compensation for additional work in periodic work shall comply with section 21 of the Working Hours Act.

Section 8 Overtime compensation

Daily overtime

Compensation for daily overtime shall be 50 per cent of the basic hourly salary (“time and a half”) for the first two working hours and 100 per cent (“double time”) for subsequent working hours.

Hours of daily overtime shall not be included when reckoning compensation for weekly overtime.

Weekly overtime

Weekly overtime compensation shall be 50 per cent of the basic hourly salary (“time and a half”) for the first 7 hours and 39 minutes, and 100 per cent (“double time”) for all subsequent working hours in the week, even if these hours are also daily overtime.

Weekly overtime in periodic work

Compensation for overtime in periodic work shall be 50 per cent of the basic hourly salary (“time and a half”) for the first 18 working hours and 100 per cent (“double time”) for subsequent working hours. If work periods of two weeks are applied in periodic work, then compensation for overtime shall be 50 per cent of the basic hourly salary (“time and a half”) for the first 12 working hours and 100 per cent (“double time”) for subsequent working hours.

Overtime in weeks including a weekday public holiday

Notwithstanding the foregoing, overtime compensation of 50 per cent of the basic hourly salary (“time and a half”) shall be paid for the first 16 working hours of weekly overtime and for the first 26 working hours of overtime in periodic work in weeks or work periods when New Year’s Day, Independence Day or May Day fall on a day other than Saturday or Sunday. If work periods of two weeks are applied in periodic work, then compensation for overtime shall be 50 per cent of the basic hourly salary (“time and a half”) for the first 20 working hours and 100 per cent (“double time”) for subsequent working hours.

Example calculation (overtime in average working time):

Overtime in average working time shall be work that is done in addition to working time entered in the schedule of work shifts. If a work shift under the schedule of work shifts is shorter than 7 hours and 39 minutes, then any "overtime" shall be additional work up to 7 hours and 39 minutes, but for no longer than 2 hours per week.

workshifts in a week completed	7.30	7.30	7.30	6.15	7.30	36.15

If overtime is done on a weekly day off, then the first 2 hours shall be additional work, as work is only overtime when a total of 38 hours and 15 minutes have been worked in a week. Hours done thereafter shall be overtime, of which the first 7 hours and 39 minutes shall be weekly overtime at an increase of 50%, and any further overtime shall be weekly overtime at an increase of 100%.

Section 9 Exchange of overtime compensation for time off

An agreement may be concluded to exchange overtime compensation for corresponding time off during the employee's regular working hours.

Section 10 Shift work and night shifts in periodic work

There is no need for shift changes to be regular in shift work, but shifts shall be changed at intervals that are decided in advance.

The employer has the authority to allocate and schedule regular working hours in the manner required by operations, such as by deciding on shifts and their duration and preparing the schedule of work shifts in accordance with the provisions of agreements and of the Working Hours Act. As shift arrangements are also very important from the point of view of staff, the following points must also be taken into consideration:

- Shifts may not be needlessly divided. Needless division of night shifts in particular must be avoided.
- When the schedule of work shifts is formulated the shop steward or other staff representative shall be entitled to spend not less than 10 days examining said schedule and to issue an opinion on it immediately thereafter.
- The confirmed schedule of work shifts shall be observed unless there is some justified reason for deviating from it. Shortfalls under relative working time norms in the working hours of employees engaged in periodic work due to sickness, annual holidays or other acceptable grounds may be reassigned only when there is a justified reason for doing so from the point of view of operations.
- If a work shift has to be entirely cancelled, shortened at the beginning or postponed, then the person concerned shall be notified on the day immediately preceding the work shift or, in exceptional cases, by no later than the time when said person departs for the work shift.
- If the foregoing notification is given to the person concerned after already arriving at the workplace, then at least one hour of the shift shall be counted as working time of said employee. The maximum time to be counted as working time will depend on the length of the journey home, on the time of day, and on other such factors.

Section 11 Compensation for evening work, night work and shift work

An evening work bonus of 15 per cent of the basic hourly salary shall be paid in compensation for work done between 18.00 and 21.00.

A night-work bonus of 35 per cent of the basic hourly salary shall be paid in compensation for work done between 21.00 and 06.00.

If work that began by no later than 04.00 continues beyond 06.00, then the night work bonus shall also be paid in periodic work for the work done between 06.00 and the first continuous rest period of not less than two hours, but until no later than 12.00.

An employee in two or three-shift work shall be paid corresponding shift work bonuses in lieu of the bonuses agreed above.

The employee's compensation for evening, night or shift work for hours of overtime and Sunday work shall be paid with bonuses reckoned on the same criteria as for other work.

Section 12 Saturday bonus

A Saturday bonus of 25 per cent of the basic hourly salary shall be paid for work done on Saturdays between 6:00 a.m. and 6:00 p.m.

Saturday bonus shall only be paid for the regular working hours of an employee whose regular working hours have been arranged to occur at the time for payment of Saturday bonus agreed above.

No Saturday bonus shall be payable for time that is remunerated by Sunday bonus.

The Saturday bonus referred to in paragraph 1 above shall not be payable if some work shift other than a Saturday work shift or part thereof has been transferred to a Saturday through informal internal agreement or equivalent rescheduling.

Section 13 Sunday bonus

A bonus equal to the basic hourly salary shall be paid as Sunday bonus for hours of work done on Sundays and other Church holidays, Independence Day and May Day.

Sunday bonus shall also be payable for work done between 18.00 and 24.00 on the day preceding said days.

Section 14 Holiday eve bonus

A bonus equal to the basic hourly salary shall be paid as holiday eve bonus for hours of work done on Easter Saturday and on the eves of Midsummer and Christmas when no Sunday bonus is payable.

Section 15 Compensation for time spent travelling

Time spent in work-related travel shall only be counted as working time when said time is spent in performing duties such as guarding and equipment monitoring.

If an employee is at work on a day spent in work-related travel but for less time than the employee's regular working hours, then the time taken in travelling shall be counted as an addition to working time whereby it amounts to no more than the daily regular working hours together with the time spent working. The time spent in travelling shall not be counted as an addition to working time in respect of a day of work-related travel that takes place when transferring from one place of work to another.

No evening or night work bonus, Saturday or Sunday bonus shall be payable for time that is counted as an addition to working time.

Section 16 Compensation for certain staff groups

The compensations agreed above in sections 7, 8, 11, 13 and 14 and the Sunday bonus referred to in the Working Hours Act shall not be paid to teaching and research staff at job requirement level 7 or to other staff at job requirement level 11 or higher levels.

Compensations under the foregoing regulations shall not be paid to employees engaged in field work during field work hours.

Working time compensations shall be paid as follows to the employees referred to above in paragraph 1 who are not in managerial positions:

- Additional work is work that is done at the behest of a supervisor in addition to regular weekly working hours, to part-time weekly working hours, or to the weekly working hours referred to in paragraphs 1 and 2 of section 17.
- Compensation for additional working hours shall be granted as equal corresponding time off in lieu or cash compensation. The cash compensation shall be paid at the basic hourly salary for additional hours, or with a bonus of 50 per cent of the basic hourly salary ("time and a half") for hours of additional work exceeding 40 hours per week. The employer shall decide whether additional work is compensated through time off in lieu or as cash compensation during the calendar month that follows the month in which the work was done. The cash compensation shall be paid by no later than the calendar month that follows the month in which the nature of the compensation is decided. Any time off shall be granted during the six calendar months following the month in which the work was done.
- 50 per cent of the basic hourly salary ("time and a half") shall be paid as the Sunday bonus.
- A separate monthly flat rate of cash compensation may be paid instead of working time compensations under this section if this is considered expedient for some special reason. The monthly compensation shall be agreed with each employee for a specified period. The amount of additional and Sunday work shall be estimated over a sufficiently extended period and the monthly compensation corresponding to the number of hours in question shall be reckoned when concluding such an agreement.

The regulations of this section or of the other sections referred to in paragraph 1 shall not apply to employees in managerial positions. Each university shall stipulate which employees occupy said managerial positions within their own organisations.

Application instruction: If no working time compensation limit or limit for employees in managerial positions has been settled in the collective agreement, then the individuals who are entitled to compensation shall be determined by a decision of the university having regard to the nature of the duties and the status of the person performing them, and to previous determinations concerning entitlement to compensation.

Working hours for which special fees are paid shall not be counted as working time when applying this regulation. Time spent at representational events or in a corresponding manner shall only be counted as working time when the employer has also ordered the discharge of working duties proper in the course of such events.

Section 17 Effect of certain days on working time

New Year's Day, May Day, Independence Day, Christmas Eve, Christmas Day, Boxing Day and Epiphany, when these holidays fall on a day other than Saturday or Sunday, and Good Friday, Easter Monday and Midsummer's Eve shall each reduce the working time of the week or work period in question by 7 hours and 15 minutes.

Ascension Day shall reduce the working time of the week or work period in question by 7 hours and 15 minutes. Ascension Day shall nevertheless not reduce working time when it falls on May Day.

Efforts shall be made to reduce working time in said weeks and work periods in the foregoing manner. Efforts shall be made to reduce the working time of a part-time employee working during these weeks or work periods in the same proportion as the working time of full-time employees.

If working time cannot be reduced, then compensation for additional work and overtime in said weeks or work periods shall be paid in the manner agreed in sections 7 – 14 and in section 16. Midsummer's Day and All Saints' Day shall not reduce working time.

Comment: Ascension Day shall not reduce working time in uninterrupted three-shift work or in continuous (uninterrupted) forms of working hours in which the annual working time is more than 8 hours shorter than annual working time in daily work.

Section 18 Certain compensations payable to employees on hourly and piecework rates in periodic work

In addition to any job remuneration, an employee on hourly and piecework rates in periodic work shall be paid compensation in accordance with average hourly earnings corresponding to regular working hours for the Saturdays following Easter Monday and Boxing Day when this day falls on a day other than Saturday or Sunday, and for Epiphany when this falls on a day other than Saturday or Sunday.

Section 19 Urgent work

Urgent work shall denote any work to which, for unforeseen reasons, the employee is called by surprise at the behest of a competent supervisor during the employee's time off and after the employee has already vacated the workplace.

If an employee has been ordered to remain on standby or in on-duty work, the employee has been notified of such work in advance, or the case concerns emergency work of the kind referred to in section 19 of the Working Hours Act, then this shall not constitute urgent work.

An employee shall be paid compensation corresponding to the basic hourly salary for preparing for urgent work, and the basic hourly salary for urgent work together with any overtime compensations for not less than one hour.

If the call to work occurs between 18.00 and 06.00, however, a 100 per cent increase in the basic hourly salary shall be payable until no later than 06.00, and compensation corresponding to the basic hourly salary shall be payable after the urgent work has ended if the work ends before 06.00 and the employee does not immediately continue in the employee's duties proper.

No evening or night work compensation shall be payable for hours of urgent work.

Section 20 Monitoring and corrective measures in unsupervised use of computers

If required by the monitoring and repair of a network and network services, standby duty can be agreed upon in writing between the employee and employer.

Section 21 Hourly salary divisor

The basic hourly salary shall be 1/153 of the regular monthly salary.

The basic hourly salary shall be reckoned in part-time work on the basis of the corresponding full-time monthly salary.

If the salary forming the basis for reckoning the basic hourly salary changes in the middle of a week or work period, then the average basic hourly salary shall serve as the basis for compensation paid for work in said week or work period.

Section 22 Transition to summer time

When changing to and from summer time in the spring and autumn of each year the length of time affording entitlement to working time compensations shall be determined in accordance with the actual time elapsed, and not the period between certain clock times on the day in question.

The time affording entitlement to evening, night and Sunday bonus shall be determined in accordance with official clock times and actual duration.

Section 23 Reference provision on application of the Working Hours Act

Employees falling within the scope of the collective agreement shall be governed in other respects by the Working Hours Act (872/2019). The provisions of said Act shall form no part of this collective agreement.

Section 24 Working time bank

A working time bank may be introduced for employees falling within the scope of the Working Hours Act. The regulations governing the working time bank are set out in a separate agreement on the working time bank system.

Section 25 Time period used as basis for calculating compensation to be paid

The time period used as a basis for calculating compensation to be paid is the actual working hours measured to the nearest minute.

CHAPTER 5 REGULATIONS ON TOTAL WORKING TIME OF TEACHING AND RESEARCH STAFF

Section 1 Scope

With the exceptions specified below, these regulations on total working time shall apply to university teaching and research staff falling within the scope of the evaluation system for teaching and research staff in the salary system for universities.

These regulations shall also apply to academy professors and academy researchers in respect of working time and transition provisions.

The regulations shall nevertheless not apply to teaching and research staff whose working time can be controlled by the employer in the manner referred to in the Working Hours Act owing to the nature of the work and the place where the work is done. Where necessary each university shall specify the duties of this kind that fall outside the scope of the agreement.

Application instruction: The regulations will therefore not apply to teaching and research staff whose duties require them to work regular or flexible hours in university facilities. If a person in these circumstances works outside of the hours of work enabled by normal working hours and flexible working hours, then the prior written order of a supervisor shall always be required for any payment of compensation for additional work or overtime.

These regulations shall not apply to students who are engaged in undergraduate degree studies and are employed by the university.

The regulations shall likewise not govern service relationship arrangements for teaching medicine and dentistry between university and hospital functions.

Section 2 Objectives

The objective is to increase the flexibility of working arrangements, improve conditions for research, promote artistic endeavours, enhance research-based teaching, and develop new more stimulating forms of teaching and studying.

Section 3 Working time and work plan

The annual working time of teaching and research staff falling within the scope of these regulations shall be 1,612 hours.

All employees will co-operate annually with their supervisors to prepare a work plan before the next academic year begins.

The university shall approve the work plans through their own organisational processes.

New work plans for service relationships beginning during the academic year and any modifications in work plans that may be required shall also be processed in the foregoing manner.

Application instruction: The work plans of unit staff shall be formulated simultaneously, having regard to the need to arrange the teaching operations for which the unit is responsible under the curriculum, to other matters of common responsibility, and to the equitable distribution of duties.

A work plan shall allow for any extended absences, such as family leaves, that may materially affect the content of the plan. Following an extended period of absence an examination shall be made of completion of the work plan before the absence, and the necessary amendments shall be made to the work plan.

If new duties are agreed during the academic year that cannot be held to have formed part of the overall duties covered by the work plan, then the work plan shall be modified accordingly.

Section 4 Implementation of work plan

Employees will be responsible for their own hours of work and for using these hours in duties under the work plan.

The supervisor and employee shall review implementation of the work plan and the outcome of work in relation to total working time as the need to do so arises during the academic year.

Section 5 Content of work plan

The work plan shall record the allocation of 1,612 hours of working time to various fields of duty over the following academic year.

The formulation of work plans shall allow for participation of the person concerned in teaching, research and other duties.

Application instruction: The unit leader shall consider the following principles when approving work plans.

While the duties of teaching and research staff may be weighted towards teaching or research, the aim is for all teaching and research staff to engage in both teaching and research. Efforts will be made to harmonise the work plans for a unit so that each employee has an opportunity by turns to engage in a period of research work free of teaching and administrative commitments.

Dimensioning of teaching duties shall allow for the content of teaching and the preparation work that it requires, and particularly for the time spent in preparing renewable teaching periods.

A maximum of 394 hours of contact teaching per academic year may be included in the work plan for duties weighted towards teaching. The contact teaching time of professors will nevertheless not exceed 141 hours per academic year.

A maximum of 452 hours of contact teaching per academic year may be included in teaching duties that involve no actual research. It is nevertheless not the purpose of this agreement to increase the volume of contact teaching done by a person previously teaching no more than 392 (394) hours per academic year on the entry into force of this agreement.

The aim is for no increase to occur in the proportion of staff whose duties include no research in addition to teaching.

If the number of teaching hours included in the total working time for some position was nevertheless greater than the foregoing hours when this agreement entered into force, then said higher number of teaching hours shall be understood as the maximum number for that position.

The maximum contact teaching hours referred to herein may only be exceeded in a work plan with the consent of the person concerned.

Section 6 Work plans of thesis writers

If the main function of an employee engaged in further studies is to write an academic thesis and pursue further studies, then participation in teaching work and other duties that is included in the work plan shall be dimensioned in order to enable completion of the thesis within the planned timetable.

Application instruction: It is recommended that no more than 5% of annual working time is used for teaching, and that teaching is linked to the individual's own research interest where possible.

Section 7 Exceptional scheduling of teaching

If the university has decided on special teaching periods for the academic year, then teaching may only be arranged outside of these times with the employee's consent.

Section 8 Teaching outside of the work plan

If a person has consented to do more teaching assigned by the unit than was the duty of the person concerned under the work plan, then special compensation shall be paid for this teaching work. The basic hourly salary rate for this separate compensation shall be derived by dividing the annual salary of the employee by 1,600.

A university may limit the amount of teaching within said university that is not specified in a work plan.

Section 9 Effects of agreement

The parties hereto shall monitor the effects of the agreement on the content of the work of teaching and research staff and on the volume of work done under the work plan, and shall negotiate improvements in the regulations of the agreement as required.

Particular attention shall be paid to monitoring changes in the volume of teaching done by staff whose workload is weighted towards teaching and in the use of various teaching loads within the total working time of 1,612 hours.

CHAPTER 6 SALARY SYSTEM FOR UNIVERSITIES

Section 1 Aims of the salary system

The aim of the salary system for universities is to promote equitable remuneration, to improve the salary competitiveness of universities as employers, to support the enhancement of staff skills and support the staff in seeking more demanding positions, to provide an incentive for better staff performance, and to develop and improve supervisory work and management.

Section 2 Scope

With the exceptions specified in this section, this salary system shall apply to the permanently employed staff of universities.

The salary system shall also govern temporary employment lasting for longer than 6 months, either in a single period or in an unbroken succession of linked periods. The agreement shall apply as of the beginning of the employment during which said 6-month period is completed.

Breaks lasting for no longer than 30 days or one calendar month shall not be considered to interrupt said period. Nor shall any break lasting for no longer than 180 days or 6 calendar months be considered to interrupt said period in the case of a grant aid period associated with further studies, research work or artistic work at the university. The duration of such interruptions shall nevertheless not be included in the duration of employment.

In temporary employment lasting for not longer than 6 months the employer shall confirm the cash value of salaries in euros to correspond to salaries under this agreement for positions that correspond in respect of job requirement and personal performance.

The salary system shall not apply to persons serving in an employer capacity, to persons performing corresponding duties under the FiDiPro funding system and other exceptional financing arrangements, to the teaching staff of training schools, to hourly-paid staff, to persons in trainee positions or to staff hired under subsidised employment schemes.

Separate salary provisions have been agreed for academy professors and academy researchers.

Section 2 of the provisions of this collective agreement governing local collective bargaining provides that a local agreement may be concluded whereby the salary system will not apply to some class of positions. The employer shall confirm the cash value of salaries in euros for such positions, so that they correspond to not less than the salaries under this agreement for positions that correspond in respect of job requirement and personal performance.

Minuted note: In situations where two or more universities are merged or in other structural arrangements like fusions or business transfers, the parties of this agreement agree on the procedures which the universities have to follow to ensure the purpose of the salary system and equal treatment of employees. The starting point is that in change situations actions follow the procedures agreed in this chapter, taking into account the specific features of each change situation when required.

The employee shall nevertheless always be entitled to choose a salary that is determined solely on the basis of the conditions and procedures set out in this agreement.

Section 3 Evaluation systems

Universities shall apply two evaluation systems: one for teaching and research staff and one for other staff.

The employer shall decide which evaluation system applies to a certain position in accordance with the criteria specified in the appendices referred to in section 14.

Section 4 Salary factors

The salary under the system shall comprise a job-related salary element based on the requirement of duties, a personal salary element based on personal performance, and a guaranteed salary element based on the collective agreement for government in force on 31 December 2009 pertaining to employment that was current on said date.

Section 5 Determination of job-related salary element

5.1 Job-related salary element

The job-related salary element shall be determined on the basis of the requirement of the position.

The requirement evaluation of a position shall be based on the duties specified by the employer, on the job description and on the evaluation system applied to the position.

The tables of job-related salary elements for teaching and research staff and for other staff are attached as Appendix 5.

The job-related salary element of undergraduate students falling under the system for teaching and research staff and within the scope of the agreement, who have not completed the necessary higher university degree, shall be not less than 75 per cent of the salary for the job requirement in question.

5.2 Requirement factors of positions

The principal requirement factors for evaluating the requirement of positions in the system for teaching and research staff are the nature and responsibility of the work, the interaction skills required for the position, and the knowledge and skills required for the position.

The principal requirement factors in the system for other staff are the content of the position and the problem solving and organisational skills that it requires, interaction skills, responsibility and the required knowledge and skills.

5.3 Evaluation group

Every university shall have two evaluation groups comprising members appointed by the employer and by employee organisations, one for teaching and research staff and one for other staff.

Each university shall decide on the size of the groups.

The university shall appoint the employer's representatives on the evaluation group and their deputies. The parties to the collective agreement representing the staff shall appoint their own representatives and the deputies thereto.

The number of representatives appointed by the organisations shall be at least equal to the number of representatives appointed by the employer. The composition of evaluation groups shall allow for the gender equality perspective where possible.

An employer's representative appointed by the university shall chair the groups. Only employees of the university in question or the Rector of the university may serve as a member of an evaluation group.

5.4 Evaluation procedure for position requirements

A new or modified position is evaluated in the evaluation procedure. The position requirement and requirement level of a position shall be reviewed during evaluation discussions conducted between employees and their supervisors.

The evaluation groups shall consider the requirement evaluations of new and modified positions during the next evaluation group meeting and shall determine their views of these evaluations.

The employer shall confirm the requirement levels after receiving the proposals of supervisors and the evaluation groups. The employer may deviate from the proposal of the evaluation group for justified reasons.

The practical evaluation procedures in the system for teaching and research staff may differ in individual universities within the constraints of the system. Evaluations may also call on the assistance of a specialist group comprised of several members.

Regulation: The advancement of individuals principally engaged in doctoral dissertation work (persons referred to in section 5 (6)) from one position requirement level to another may be implemented without a position requirement evaluation conducted under the salary system and consideration by the evaluation group, if advancement by position requirement levels has been determined at the university. The employee shall nevertheless always be entitled to choose a salary that is determined solely on the basis of the conditions and procedures set out in this agreement.

Application instruction: No consideration by the evaluation group shall be required if a postdoctoral researcher at the postdoctoral stage is assigned to position requirement level 5 no later than three (3) years after the doctoral dissertation was examined. The employee shall nevertheless always be entitled to choose a salary that is determined solely on the basis of the conditions and procedures set out in this agreement.

5.4.1 Evaluation of the position requirements in a new position

A position shall be deemed new when the evaluation group has not previously considered its requirement, or the requirement of corresponding positions. Corresponding positions shall be those that substantially correspond to one another.

In the case of new positions, the employer shall make a provisional evaluation of the position requirement.

The requirement of a new position and the requirement level shall be examined by means of evaluation discussions between the employee and his/her supervisor within six (6) months of commencement of employment.

The supervisor shall propose the requirement level in writing on the basis of the evaluation.

5.4.2 Evaluation of the position requirements in the previously evaluated position

For a position in which the requirement of the positions or the requirement of corresponding positions is determined by the evaluation group, the supervisor will determine the previously ratified requirement level. The requirement level should be determined when signing the employment contract. The employer can raise the requirement level determined by the supervisor. The employer will ratify the requirement level.

5.4.3 Evaluation of the position requirements in the modified position

The position requirement shall be re-evaluated if a supervisor considers that the duties have changed to the extent that a re-evaluation is necessary in order to determine whether the requirement level must be changed. The requirement of a position shall also be re-evaluated when so requested by the person in question or by a shop steward representing the person concerned.

Application instruction: Evaluations of the requirement for teaching and research staff positions with requirement levels 1–4 shall allow for such factors as progress in doctoral dissertation writing.

Minuted note: It is recommended that the positions of individuals principally engaged in doctoral dissertation work (persons referred to in section 5 (6)) should primarily be assigned to position requirement level 2 at the start of the first employment relationship. Similarly, it is recommended that, on the basis of a written evaluation to the level of 50% by a supervisor after a doctoral dissertation has progressed, the requirement level will rise by one level and, having progressed on the basis of the supervisor's written evaluation to the level of 75%, by one further level.

Having changed, a position shall also be dealt with which, after ratification of the current requirement level, has gradually developed to become more demanding.

A re-evaluation should be requested in writing. The request shall specify the manner in which the duties have changed since the last evaluation and the reasons why the change raises the position requirement.

The supervisor shall make a written proposal on the basis of the evaluation s/he has completed as soon as possible after a request is made by an employee or shop steward; however, no later than two months from presentation of the request.

With regard to the modified position, the supervisor shall propose the requirement level in writing on the basis of his/her evaluation.

The requirement of positions generally remains the same or increases when the duties of regular employment change. If the employer proposes a change to duties during the employment relationship that would result in a reduction in the position requirement, the employer must investigate the feasibility of arranging the duties in a manner that maintains the same requirement level. If, also after clarification, the position requirement has essentially declined, the employer and employee can agree in writing on a reduction in the position requirement.

Section 6 Determination of personal salary element

6.1 Personal salary element

The personal salary element shall be determined on the basis of the individual performance category and percentage.

The tables of personal salary elements for teaching and research staff and for other staff are attached to this agreement as appendix 5.

6.2 Personal performance evaluation factors

The principal evaluation factors in the evaluation system for teaching and research staff are pedagogical merits, research merits, and social and university community merits.

The principal evaluation factors in the evaluation system for other staff are professional competence, responsibility at work, functioning in the workplace community, and quality and performance.

6.3 Personal performance evaluation procedure

The personal performance of duties and the performance level shall be reviewed in evaluation discussions conducted between the employee and his/her supervisor.

The performance evaluation shall concern the performance of individuals in their work and the objectives assigned to the individual. The supervisor shall make, on the basis of his/her evaluation, a proposal with respect to the amount of the personal salary element, in which the performance category is determined, as well as the personal performance percentage. The employer ratifies the personal salary element proposal. The employer may deviate from the supervisor's performance evaluation for justified reasons.

The practical evaluation procedures in the system may differ in individual universities within the constraints of the system. Evaluations may also call on the assistance of a specialist group comprised of several members.

At universities, the supervisors implement performance evaluations annually.

In two years' time from the previous evaluation, an employee can request a re-evaluation of personal performance.

An evaluation discussion with an employee should, however, occur within five (5) years from the previous evaluation discussion.

An annual evaluation period or periods is/are determined at universities, whereupon the supervisors perform the required performance evaluations. Evaluations can, according to need, be performed at other times than during the actual evaluation periods.

6.3.1 Personal performance evaluation at the start of employment or in a new position

The initial personal salary element paid to a person newly recruited to the university shall conform to the performance level deemed to correspond to the individual's qualifications, work experience, and performance percentage, which is correspondingly assessed in relation to his/her competence, work experience, and previous performance.

This procedure shall also apply when a person is transferred to a new, different position within the university.

Application instruction: If an employee in fixed-term employment continues in the service of the same university in a position corresponding to the requirement level or in a position with similar content, the amount of the salary element cannot be reduced.

An employee may, in the aforementioned circumstances, request a performance evaluation within six months of beginning employment. If fixed-term employment continues in the manner compliant with section 6 (2), the evaluation should be performed as soon as possible after presentation of the request.

6.3.2 Personal performance evaluation if change in the requirement level of positions occurs

The performance level of a person in a changed position shall be evaluated at the time of change in the same way as in a new position, so that it corresponds to a performance level evaluated in accordance with the individual's qualifications, work experience, and previous performance in relation to the changed requirement level and position.

The total salary may not be reduced at this stage if the position requirement increases.

An employee may request a performance evaluation in a changed position within six months of the inception of the change in the position.

6.3.3 Reduction of personal performance level in the same position

If the evaluation discussion confirms a decline in personal performance, which would lead to a reduction in the performance percentage, measures for improvement in work performance should be mutually agreed. A new evaluation shall be performed at the earliest opportunity and within no more than 12 months of the previous evaluation.

If the new evaluation indicates that the previous performance level has not been restored, then the personal salary element shall be revised to correspond to the new evaluation.

If a person has spent a substantial portion of the period between the previous two evaluations away from work due to illness, or on leave through childbirth or child care under section 4 of the Employment Contracts Act, then a third evaluation may be performed, to be completed without delay within three (3) months of the previous evaluation. If the third evaluation indicates that the previous performance level has not been restored, then the personal salary element shall be revised to correspond to the third evaluation.

No revision in the personal salary element shall occur, however, if the reduction in performance level in both re-evaluations can be regarded as the outcome of leave granted due to childbirth or child care. The employer may nevertheless perform a new evaluation within no more than 12 months of the return to work in such cases.

Section 7: Payment of salary and entry into force of amendments

If the requirement level changes, the salary shall be paid on the basis of the requirement evaluation ratified by the employer with respect to the written proposal of the supervisor from the beginning of the next month onwards, unless the employer suggests another date for the change in position.

If the personal salary element changes, the personal salary element ratified by the employer after the end of the evaluation period shall be paid from the beginning of the next calendar month. If the evaluation is performed otherwise than in connection with the evaluation period, the salary shall be paid in accordance with the written proposal of the supervisor from the beginning of the next calendar month.

Section 7a Job requirement bonus

In addition to the job-related salary element, the employer may pay a job requirement bonus amounting to 50% of the salary difference between the job requirement level of the employee's position and the next higher job requirement level, having regard in addition to the personal salary element. The job requirement bonus may be temporary.

Minuted note: Introduction of a job requirement bonus in the salary system will not affect the content or interpretation of the job requirement schemes or job requirement table. Positions will continue to be determined at a certain job requirement level in accordance with the salary system.

As the decision to pay a job requirement bonus does not change the job requirement level of a position, personal performance and performance percentage will not be re-evaluated at this time in the manner referred to in point 6.3.2 of the agreement.

Minuted note: The evaluation group shall be entitled to know whether the individual in question has a job requirement bonus allocated to the position in the event that the job requirement level of a position is submitted for consideration by the evaluation group. If the evaluation group has proposed a job requirement bonus, then it shall be advised of whether the bonus has been granted on the basis of the proposal.

Section 8 Transition bonus

A person enjoying a transition bonus under the collective agreement for government that was formerly in force on 31 December 2009 (section 6 of Appendix 1 of the specifying collective agreement for government on the adoption of a new salary system, 21 June 2006) shall retain the right to said bonus in accordance with said agreement.

The bonus shall lapse or be reduced if the person is transferred to serve in a locality where there is no entitlement to a cold-climate allowance or cold-weather payment, or where there is entitlement to a lower cold-climate allowance or cold-weather payment.

Section 9 Guarantee salary

The right of a person who was entitled on 31 December 2009 to the guarantee salary associated with the adoption of the salary system (agreement on the adoption of a salary system for universities, 21 June 2006) to a guarantee salary determined on the foregoing basis shall continue in accordance with the specifying collective agreement for government that was formerly in force for as long as the person continues in uninterrupted permanent employment with the same university.

A person who was in a temporary service relationship at the time of said adoption shall be entitled to the guarantee salary for the fixed term in question. The right to a guarantee salary shall continue even thereafter for as long as the person concerned continues in the uninterrupted service of the same university in a service relationship the duties of which are at no less than the same requirement level as those of the person's duties at the time of said adoption.

Breaks lasting for no longer than 30 days or one calendar month shall not be considered to interrupt said period. Nor shall any break lasting for no longer than 180 days or 6 calendar months be considered to interrupt said period in the case of a grant aid period associated with further studies, research work or artistic work at the university. The duration of such interruptions shall nevertheless not be included in the duration of employment.

The guarantee salary shall be paid for the period over which it remains greater than the salary paid under the salary system of this agreement.

If a person was in temporary employment at a higher salary than that of said person's regular service relationship at the time of adoption, i.e. 1 January 2006, or in respect of supplementary funding on 1 January 2007, then the guarantee salary shall be determined in accordance with the salary of the permanent employment relationship at the time of adoption when the person returns thereto.

The guarantee salary shall be revised through general increases settled by collective agreement.

The job requirement and personal performance of a person receiving a guarantee salary shall also be evaluated in the manner specified in this agreement. If a person voluntarily seeks a position at a lower job requirement level than that of the person's permanent employment at the time of adoption, then the guarantee salary shall be correspondingly reduced.

According to a protocol prepared on 18 September 2009, the guarantee salary of a member of the teaching and research staff of universities shall also include the temporary productivity or researcher training bonus to which said person was entitled on 30 September 2009 for as long as said person remains in the same position.

Section 10 Exceptional bonus for lecturers

A lecturer receiving a guarantee salary who was entitled at the time of adoption of the previous agreement on 21 June 2006 to a lecturer's productivity bonus shall be entitled to a separate bonus of €180 for as long as said lecturer continues to serve the same university as a lecturer without interruption.

Minuted note: This additional fee shall be correspondingly reduced if the individual's salary increases.

Section 11 University-related separate fees

Universities may pay separate bonuses, supplements and fees based on in-house decisions. Any distribution that may arise in payment of such bonuses, supplements and fees shall continue to be decided at university level. The bonuses, supplements and fees may not coincide with salary factors under this salary system.

The university shall pay management fees to its academic managers in accordance with in-house decisions.

Section 12 Right to information

Individuals shall be entitled to written information on the results of their job requirement and personal performance evaluations and on the grounds for these results, and on their job-related and personal salary element and other salary factors under this agreement together with the grounds for these factors.

Section 13 Settlement of disputes

An employee who is dissatisfied with the employer's decision concerning the job requirement or personal performance may submit a written notice of disagreement on the matter. A notice of disagreement shall be submitted without undue delay.

Where so requested by the person concerned or by a shop steward representing said person at said person's request, a disagreement concerning a job requirement evaluation shall be considered with said person's supervisor or with some other representative of the employer, and by the evaluation group at the request of either party.

Where so requested by the person concerned or by a shop steward representing said person at said person's request, a disagreement concerning an evaluation of personal performance shall be considered with said person's supervisor, or thereafter with a more senior supervisor or with some other representative of the employer.

Any remaining difference of opinion on the matter may be submitted for settlement by the grievance procedure prescribed in the collective agreement.

Application instruction: It is expedient for the grievance procedure between federations to consider any evaluation of personal performance only to the extent that the grievance does not concern the accuracy of an evaluation performed by a supervisor.

Section 14 Appendices

To implement this salary system and apply it in practice, the parties to the collective agreement have jointly approved the job requirement scheme for teaching and research staff and the job requirement scheme for other staff that are appended to this collective agreement.

Section 15 Salaries of staff representatives

In addition to this agreement, the regulations of the agreement on shop stewards shall be applied with respect to persons serving as shop stewards or labour protection delegates.

Section 16: Transitional provisions

The personnel's personal salary element shall be determined in accordance with the modified remuneration scheme, starting 1 January 2019. If a personal salary element is paid to the employee on 31 December 2018, the amount of the salary element shall be kept at least the same if the system changes. In connection with the introduction of a new personal salary element, no one's personal salary element shall decline due to the deployment of a modified salary system.

If the employee is paid a performance raise in accordance with the salary system valid 31 December 2018, it shall change starting 1 January 2019 as part of the employee's personal salary element.

CHAPTER 7 REGULATIONS ON ACADEMY PROFESSORS AND ACADEMY RESEARCHERS

Section 1 General

These regulations shall apply to persons serving in a university as academy professors and academy researchers based on funding from the Academy of Finland.

The duties of an academy professor and academy researcher and their participation in teaching shall be determined in accordance with the funding decision of the Academy.

Section 2 Working time

The provisions of subsection 1 of section 3 of chapter 5 on annual total working time of 1,612 hours for teaching and research staff shall apply to academy professors and academy researchers.

Section 3 Salary

The remuneration of academy professors and academy researchers shall at least be determined in accordance with the funding decision of the Academy of Finland.

Salaries shall be increased during the funding period in accordance with the general salary increase impacts on universities.

Section 4 Other stipulations

The employment of academy professors and academy researchers shall comply with the instructions issued in the funding decision of the Academy of Finland.

The regulations of this collective agreement shall govern academy professors and academy researchers in other applicable respects.

CHAPTER 8 AGREEMENT ON COMPENSATION FOR REMOVAL EXPENSES

Section 1 Scope

These agreement regulations shall govern the compensation payable for removals occurring within Finland.

Employees shall be compensated for removal expenses when they have to move to another locality due to the relocation or reorganisation of a university or part thereof.

Section 2 General

Compensation shall be paid for the following removal expenses:

- 1) the travelling expenses of employees and their family members for a removal journey in accordance with the regulations on compensation for travelling expenses set out in section 10 of chapter 1 of this agreement,
- 2) the necessary and reasonable costs that are directly associated with and incurred in the transportation of ordinary domestic effects,
- 3) a removal allowance in compensation for other necessary expenses incurred in the removal, and
- 4) other necessary compensation associated with the removal, payable to the employee at the employer's discretion.

Section 3 Removal allowance

A removal allowance shall be paid in compensation for necessary expenses incurred in a removal.

The removal allowance shall be determined according to the number of people moving as follows:

The removal allowance paid is €1,009.13 for one person, €1,345.50 for two persons, and €1,681.88 for three or more persons moving.

If the transfer affects both married spouses at the same time, then the removal allowance is only paid to one of them. If the time between transfers is not less than six months, however, then a 50 per cent removal allowance shall also be payable to the other married spouse.

Section 4 Transportation arranged by the employer

If the employer arranges transportation for the person or removal effects without charge, then this transportation shall be used, provided that the manner of removal, the distance moved or the time taken in the removal satisfy general standards of reasonableness.

Section 5 Presentation of invoice

An invoice for the compensation referred to in these agreed regulations shall, in the absence of any valid impediment, be submitted to the employer within no more than two months of the removal or of completing the journey.

Receipts and other reliable accounts of the expenses incurred shall be appended to the invoice.

Section 6 Special housing expenses

Compensation may be paid for special housing expenses associated with the removal in the manner separately agreed for each university.

CHAPTER 9 WORKING HOURS PROVISIONS PERTAINING TO VETERINARIANS AT THE VETERINARY TEACHING HOSPITAL OF THE UNIVERSITY OF HELSINKI

Section 1 Scope

These provisions shall govern veterinarians employed at the Veterinary Teaching Hospital of the University of Helsinki in tasks that require veterinarian qualifications regardless of job title.

The Veterinary Teaching Hospital of the University of Helsinki is a veterinarian service in the sense of paragraph 3 of subsection 1 of section 7 of the Working Hours Act, where work can be arranged as period-based work. Should the working hours of a veterinarian at a unit of the Veterinary Teaching Hospital of the University of Helsinki not be arranged as periodic work, the arrangement of the regular working hours of such a veterinarian shall be subject to the working hours provisions of chapter 4, unless otherwise agreed below.

A veterinarian subject to the regulations on total working time of teaching and research staff pursuant to chapter 5 is subject to the provisions of this chapter only with respect to provisions on standby duty and active work compensation, and the standby and on-duty work pursuant to this chapter are not included in the total working time.

Section 2 Working hours in period-based work

At the Veterinary Teaching Hospital of the University of Helsinki, the regular working hours shall be 7 hours and 15 minutes per day, and 36 hours and 15 minutes per week.

The working hours of periodic work at the Veterinary Teaching Hospital of the University of Helsinki are balanced to the above regular working hours during a working period of 26 weeks.

Work schedule shall be prepared for as long a period of time as possible, however for at least two weeks, and shall be communicated to the employees at least two weeks before the entry into force of the schedule of work shifts.

The employer may amend the schedule of work shifts owing to compelling reasons attributable to the arrangement of work.

If the schedule of work shifts has not been prepared for the duration of the entire work time balancing period, the employer must prepare a balancing plan in advance as referred to in section 29 of the Working Hours Act. The employer may amend the balancing plan for reasons attributable to the arrangement of work.

Section 3 Rest periods and breaks

In period-based work, the daily rest period shall be 11 hours as a general rule but, owing to reasons attributable to the arrangement of work, it may be 9 hours in line with section 25 of the Working Hours Act. The provision of substituting resting time in lieu of the shorter daily resting period shall be determined in accordance with section 25(4) of the Working Hours Act.

If the work time in period-based work exceeds 6 hours, the employee shall be given the opportunity to eat during the work for approximately 15 minutes. If the work time exceeds 10 hours, the employee shall also be entitled to another opportunity to eat during work.

Section 4 Additional work and overtime

Additional work is any work not constituting overtime that is performed during a period at the request of a supervisor in addition to the average regular working hours. Hourly salary without increase shall be paid for additional work or, subject to separate agreement, equivalent amount of time off shall be given for additional work.

Overtime refers to work performed at the supervisor's initiative during a period in excess of 1040 hours. Hourly salary increased by 50% shall be paid for the first 182 hours of overtime, and hourly salary increased by 100% shall be paid for subsequent hours. An agreement may be concluded to exchange overtime compensation for corresponding time off.

A New Year's Day, Independence Day or May Day that occurs on a day other than Saturday or Sunday shall each lower the overtime threshold of the period by 7 hours and 15 minutes.

Having additional work or overtime done shall require the consent of the employee in accordance with section 17 of the Working Hours Act. Should consent pertaining to additional work have been given in the employment agreement, the employee shall, however, for justifiable personal reasons, have the right to refuse additional work on days which are entered as free time on the work shift schedule. The employer shall introduce the principles of the use of additional work to new employees when concluding an employment agreement.

At the Veterinary Teaching Hospital of the University of Helsinki units where the work time has been arranged pursuant to chapter 4, overtime refers to work performed in addition to 8 hours of work per day and 40 hours of work per week. Weekly overtime compensation shall be 50 per cent of the basic hourly salary ("time and a half") for the first 8 hours, and for all subsequent hours, even if these hours are also daily overtime, 100 per cent of the basic hourly salary ("double time").

For the time that a veterinarian has been paid compensation for standby or on-duty active work, no separate additional work or overtime compensation shall be paid to the veterinarian.

Section 5 Interruption of work week or period

If the employment ends in the middle of a work week or period, the period shall also end. If the employment ends before the work time has balanced to the average weekly working hours pursuant to section 2, subsection 1, it shall be calculated how many hours per week the work time exceeds the regular average work time, and compensation equivalent to salary for regular working hours shall be paid for the excess hours.

Section 6 Night work

Night work shall refer to work performed between 11 p.m. and 6 a.m. The employer may order two night-work shifts per week to a veterinarian without the veterinarian's consent.

7 Standby and on-duty time

Standby refers to an arrangement whereby the employer and the veterinarian agree that the veterinarian is obliged, outside of the regular working hours, to arrive at the workplace within one hour of having received a call. The veterinarian shall be available by telephone throughout the entire standby period.

On-duty work refers to the time between 6 p.m. and 6 a.m. on weekdays (Monday through Friday). In addition, on-duty work includes working hours performed on weekends and public holidays on weekdays*. During the on-duty work, the employee is obliged to be present at the workplace or with a patient working for the employer.

Compensation for standby and on-duty periods

	From midnight until 8 a.m.	From 8 a.m. until 4 p.m.	From 4 p.m. until midnight
Monday	10.17 euros	6.92 euros	6.92 euros
Tuesday–Thursday	6.92 euros	6.92 euros	6.92 euros
Friday	6.92 euros	6.92 euros	8.30 euros
Saturday	8.30 euros	8.30 euros	8.30 euros
Sunday	8.30 euros	10.17 euros	10.17 euros
weekday public holidays*	10.17 euros	10.17 euros	10.17 euros

* In addition to weekday public holidays, Independence Day, Christmas Eve and Midsummer's Eve, May Day and Easter Saturday shall be deemed equivalent to weekday public holidays.

Active work during standby shall begin when the veterinarian arrives at the Veterinary Teaching Hospital of the University of Helsinki to retrieve students and/or the necessary tools, and it ends after the completion of immediate measures following arrival at the Veterinary Teaching Hospital of the University of Helsinki, or in hospital work it shall begin when the veterinarian arrives at the Veterinary Teaching Hospital and end when the veterinarian leaves the hospital.

For telephone consultation provided during the standby period, the work time shall commence upon the commencement of the call and end at the end of the call.

A veterinarian shall be paid half of an active work hour per call for telephone consultation outside of active work on standby and hospital on-duty work. If several calls occur in rapid proximity, then the definition of the section Active work compensation shall govern the definition of active work hours for actual work done. For example, three 5-minute calls occurring within 30 minutes shall correspond to 1/2 an hour of active work.

If a telephone consultation on standby results in the immediate departure of a veterinarian for active work, then one active work hour shall be paid for said telephone consultation.

When telephone consultation and actual work are combined the calculated active work may not exceed the total time spent by more than 30 minutes.

Active work compensation

Time entitling to active work compensation shall refer to work performed during standby or on-duty periods.

The compensation for active work = the fixed monthly salary/153, in accordance with the basic hourly salary.

Increases:

- evening work from 6 p.m. to 11 p.m. +75%
- night work from 11 p.m. to 6 a.m. +100%
- Saturday and Sunday from 6 a.m. to 11 p.m. +50%

Weekday public holidays, Independence Day, Christmas Eve and Midsummer's Eve, May Day and Easter Saturday shall be deemed equivalent to Sundays.

Section 8 Standby work at the production animal hospital

Standby refers to an arrangement whereby the employer and the veterinarian agree that the veterinarian is obliged, outside of the regular working hours, to arrive at the workplace within 30 minutes of having received a call. The veterinarian shall be available by telephone throughout the entire standby period.

Standby compensation

	From midnight until 8 a.m.	From 8 a.m. until 4 p.m.	From 4 p.m. until midnight
Monday	16.27 euros	11.07 euros	11.07 euros
Tuesday–Thursday	11.07 euros	11.07 euros	11.07 euros

Friday	11.07 euros	11.07 euros	13.28 euros
Saturday	13.28 euros	13.28 euros	13.28 euros
Sunday	13.28 euros	16.27 euros	16.27 euros
weekday public holidays*	16.27 euros	16.27 euros	16.27 euros

For the active work time of production animal on-duty work, the veterinarian shall, the above notwithstanding, be paid the same hourly remuneration as for standby pursuant to section 7 and also active work compensation.

* In addition to weekday public holidays, Independence Day, Christmas Eve and Midsummer's Eve, May Day and Easter Saturday shall be deemed equivalent to weekday public holidays.

Section 9 Other stipulations

Travel time

Travel time is not included in working hours if it does not constitute work performance (Paragraph 2 of section 3 of the Working Hours Act).

Kilometre allowance

Travelling expenses shall be deemed to comprise the extraordinary outlays of the person concerned due to work-related travel. The right to use an own car for reaching and departing from the workplace shall be separately granted to veterinarians on standby.

The veterinarian shall be paid the per kilometre allowance referred to in the decision of the tax administration for these journeys associated with standby work.

The employer's car shall be used where possible for hospital on-duty work and standby functions. Use of an own car also during hospital on-duty work may be approved in exceptional circumstances if this reduces the costs of visiting a patient.

Taxis may be used in the manner specified in the decision of the tax administration and instructions issued by the University of Helsinki.

Section 10 Maximum working hours

The review period for the maximum working hours pursuant to section 18(1) of the Working Hours Act shall be 12 months.

Owing to reasons attributable to the arrangement of on-duty services, the maximum working hours pursuant to section 18(1) of the Working Hours Act of veterinarians may be exceeded.

Before the commencement of the application of the provision on deviation, the principles pertaining to exceeding the maximum working hours must be discussed with shop stewards.

The excess of the maximum working hours must be agreed with the on-duty veterinarian.

Section 11 Reference provision on application of the Working Hours Act

Employees falling within the scope of the collective agreement shall be governed in other respects by the Working Hours Act (5 July 2019/872). The provisions of said Act shall form no part of this collective agreement.

CHAPTER 10 OTHER AGREEMENTS

AGREEMENT ON THE WORKING TIME BANK

A working time bank may be introduced in accordance with this agreement for employees falling within the scope of the Working Hours Act and of the general working time regulations of this collective agreement.

Use of a working time bank shall require a written agreement between the employee and the employer. Either the employee or the employer may propose the adoption of a working time bank.

The agreement shall specify the bonuses, supplements and working time compensations that may be deposited in the working time bank, the maximum working time that may be deposited, and a provisional plan for the time when leave shall be taken where possible.

Minuted note: The parties to the collective agreement recommend that the agreement be concluded in the form of a model agreement prepared jointly by the parties.

Compensations for the basic and bonus components of additional work and overtime, compensations for evening work and night work, Saturday and Sunday bonus, standby compensation, holiday eve bonus and weekly rest compensations may be deposited in the working time bank. The number of hours in the working time bank shall not exceed 300 hours per employee.

Comment: A conversion table for working time compensations is attached.

Transfers of the basic and bonus components of additional work and overtime, compensations for evening work and night work, Saturday and Sunday bonus, and standby compensation to the working time bank shall be agreed by no later than the time of agreeing to perform said work.

The agreement may be concluded for an indefinite period.

Leave shall be taken at the time separately agreed and the salary for leave shall be determined in accordance with the current salary at the time of taking the leave. If no agreement can be reached on the time of the leave, then the employee shall announce the time when the leave shall be taken no later than four months before the leave begins.

Minuted note: If the employee's salary changes during a leave period, for example owing to amendments to the collective agreement, then the change shall take effect in accordance with the foregoing agreement.

Working time bank leave shall primarily be taken in whole days.

Records shall be kept of the time deposited in the working time bank in accordance with the Working Hours Act or by some other reliable method of record keeping. The balance of the working time bank shall be made readily available for the employee to check.

Taking working time bank leave shall not impair the employee's annual holiday or other benefits based on the length of employment. If an employee falls ill during leave, then the leave shall be suspended and converted into sick leave as of the following calendar day. Any leave not taken shall be postponed and granted at a subsequently agreed time. If the sick leave ends before the end of the agreed leave, then the leave shall continue as agreed.

Minuted note: The employer shall be notified of illness immediately (cf. notification of illness under the Annual Holidays Act) unless there is some pressing obstacle to notification. A certificate of incapacity to work shall be submitted to the employer in accordance with the custom and practice of the workplace.

If the employee's right to maternity, paternity or adoptive parental leave begins during agreed working time bank leave, then the leave shall be converted into maternity, paternity or adoptive parental leave.

The working time bank hours granted as leave shall be reckoned as additions to the working time of the week or work period in question until regular working hours have been completed.

The agreement may be amended by mutual agreement. Amendments to the agreement shall be made in writing.

Either party may terminate the working time bank agreement. Termination shall be effected in writing or in some other verifiable manner.

The period of notice on termination of the agreement by the employee or the employer shall be 4 months.

The time in a working time bank may, where mutually agreed, be used during said period of notice of termination of the working time bank or deferred to a later time. Except where the parties otherwise agree, any unused working time remaining in the working time bank shall be paid for in cash at the time of the salary payment following the end of the period of notice of termination.

Time that has accrued in the working time bank shall be paid for in cash at the end of employment at the times that have been agreed for the final salary payment and for payment of any outstanding holiday compensation.

Appendix to the working time bank agreement

AGREEMENT PROVISIONS GOVERNING SHOP STEWARD ACTIVITIES AND THE STATUS AND RIGHTS OF SHOP STEWARDS, LABOUR PROTECTION DELEGATES AND OTHER STAFF REPRESENTATIVES INVOLVED IN CO-OPERATION FUNCTIONS

Scope

Section 1 Staff representatives

The provisions of this agreement shall govern a chief shop steward, a shop steward, a labour protection delegate referred to in the Act on Occupational Safety and Health Enforcement and Co-operation on Occupational Safety and Health at Workplaces (44/2006), a labour protection agent, and other staff representatives who are involved in statutory co-operation functions and are referred to in section 8 of chapter 2 of the Act on Co-operation Within Undertakings (334/2007).

These provisions shall also govern the deputies of all of the foregoing shop stewards and labour protection delegates when they attend to co-operation duties.

Shop steward activities

Section 2 General considerations regarding shop steward activities

The collective bargaining system is maintained and improved through channels of negotiation between the employer and staff organisations. The shop steward system seeks to promote compliance with agreements concluded between the parties, to resolve any disputes arising between the employer and the staff in an expedient, equitable and prompt manner, to consider other issues arising between the employer and the staff, and to maintain industrial peace.

Section 3 Agreement at the university

Shop steward activity under these provisions shall be arranged at universities in the manner more precisely specified by agreement between the university and the competent organisations representing the staff (hereinafter collectively referred to as the staff organisation).

The staff shall be represented by the parties to the collective agreement and the organisations representing said parties.

Section 4 Shop steward

A shop steward denotes an employee who has been elected by the competent staff organisation to serve as its representative in attending to the duties referred to in these regulations. The shop steward must be a person in the service of the university concerned, who is conversant with conditions in his or her field of operations.

If the competent staff organisation appoints only one shop steward for an entire university, then said shop steward shall be the chief shop steward referred to herein.

Section 5 Election of shop stewards

The number of shop stewards, their location, and other details of the election shall be separately agreed by the parties referred to in section 3, having regard to the size of the university, to the number of members represented, to the remuneration and service relationship systems in use and the need for bargaining to which these systems give rise, and to the nature and scope of duties to be undertaken within the university. Care shall then be taken to ensure that the agreed fields of operation are expedient, and that their coverage promotes the transaction of business under the bargaining system.

Each staff organisation shall notify the university concerned in writing of the shop stewards and deputy shop stewards who are elected. Written notice shall also be submitted when any deputy shop steward deputises for a shop steward.

Application instruction: The competent shop steward may notify the employer in cases that do not concern a transfer of shop steward status affording a right to shop steward compensation or shop steward protection, but merely management of an individual matter or some corresponding authorisation of briefer duration.

The employees at the workplace concerned shall be given an opportunity to participate in the election of a shop steward arranged by a staff organisation at said workplace. However, the organisation and completion of the election shall not needlessly interfere with the work. The times and places of an election shall be agreed with the employer no later than 14 days before the election takes place.

If a shop steward is appointed by election at the workplace, then the time spent at the workplace in preparing and conducting the election and in reckoning the result shall be counted as working time for the persons involved in these functions.

Application instruction: On reduction or enlargement in the operations of a university or in the operating fields of shop stewards, or on account of a reorganisation, the organisation of shop stewards may, by agreement between the parties in line with the principles of these provisions, be modified as necessary to correspond to the revised size and structure of the university or operating field.

If a shop steward is chosen by election, then said election shall take place at the workplace during working hours, provided that the organisation and implementation of the election do not disrupt work at the university. In such cases the parties shall agree on the time, place and other details of the election in good time before the election takes place. If the election unreasonably inconveniences the operations of the university, then it shall take place outside of working hours. The competent staff organisations shall manage the practicalities of the election.

Section 6 Duties of a shop steward

The function of a shop steward shall be to represent employees and the staff organisation in interpreting and applying collective agreements, provisions and regulations, and in other matters pertaining to relations between the employer and an employee. A shop steward shall also convey information and notifications between the employer, the organisations and the staff.

Comment: The functions of a shop steward are also prescribed in certain statutes, such as the Act on Co-operation Within Undertakings and the Working Hours Act (872/2019).

Application instruction: As the systems of co-operation, negotiation and collective bargaining are intended to be mutually complementary, care should be taken to ensure effective co-operation and information exchange between co-operation bodies and the shop steward. The employer shall notify the shop steward of the persons who are empowered to represent and make decisions on behalf of the employer.

Duties of a staff representative

Section 7 Duties

Staff representatives shall be required, notwithstanding said status, to comply with regulations and agreements governing their employment, as well as working hours, instructions of supervisors, and other obligations arising from said employment.

Rights of a staff representative

Section 8 Use of time

Job release

For the purpose of attending to their duties, a staff representative shall be entitled to temporary, regularly recurrent or complete release from the duties of employment.

When arranging the foregoing job release the university shall allow for the nature of its functions, for the scale of the workplace and the number of working locations therein, for the remuneration systems in use and the need for bargaining to which these systems give rise, for the number of staff, for the available communication channels and for other corresponding facts, together with the volume of duties of a person engaged in the consequent co-operation functions.

The time allocated for the functions of staff representative shall correspond to the functions that are required by the representative's position.

If a staff representative has been granted regularly recurrent release from work, then in urgent cases the representative may also be released at other times that are convenient from the point of view of working duties.

The purpose of arrangements concerning use of time is to enable employees to perform their functions as staff representatives in an effective and expedient manner.

Minuted note: For staff representatives falling within the scope of the total working time system for teaching and research staff, job release pursuant to this agreement shall be incorporated into the plan of working hours.

Comment: Section 34 of the Act on Occupational Safety and Health Enforcement and Cooperation on Occupational Safety and Health at Workplaces prescribes the following concerning use of time by a labour protection delegate:

When determining the time required for performing the duties of a labour protection delegate consideration shall be given to the number of employees represented by the delegate, to the regional scale of the workplace, to the number of working locations and the nature of the work that is done at them, to factors arising from the organisation of work that affect the extent of the delegate's duties, and to other inconvenience, hazard and workload factors referred to in the Occupational Safety and Health Act that affect the safety and the physical and mental health of employees.

If no other agreement is reached on the time allocation of a labour protection delegate and no fewer than ten employees work regularly at the workplace, then, having regard to the foregoing factors, the employer shall release the delegate from regular work for the purpose of attending to the duties of a delegate for no less than four hours in each period of four consecutive calendar weeks, unless such job release would so considerably inconvenience production or the employer's operations that it would constitute a temporary impediment to such release.

Organisation of duties

The employer and a shop steward or labour protection delegate who has been partially released from duties proper may agree that said duties will be arranged over the period for which the person concerned has been elected to represent the staff. This may be justified on account of the amount of time required for the representative's duties, or when the duties proper of the person concerned substantially hamper attendance to the duties of representative.

Duties outside of working hours

A staff representative shall agree in advance with the employer's representative on the duties that have been stipulated or agreed for performance outside of working hours unless these duties have been ordered by a public authority.

Section 9 Salary of a staff representative

The primary basis for determining the job-related and personal salary element of a staff representative shall be the provisions of the collective agreement for universities.

The performance, performance category and performance percentage of a shop steward or a labour protection delegate who has been partially released from working duties proper shall be assessed on the basis of his or her work in said working duties, and no assessment of reduced performance shall therefore be made on account of said partial job release.

If a shop steward or labour protection delegate has been fully released from the working duties proper of employment, then the salary payable thereto shall be determined on the basis of section 7 of chapter 1 of the collective agreement for universities, or it shall be separately ascertained or agreed in each case.

If the employer and a shop steward or labour protection delegate who has been partially released from working duties proper jointly stipulate that said duties are to be arranged in the manner referred to in paragraph 6 of section 8 and that said arrangement will reduce the job requirement, then the job-related salary element of the person concerned shall be increased by paying an additional fee corresponding to the reduction. This additional fee shall be equated with a job-related salary element and shall include general increases. The arrangement of duties of the person concerned when the representative duties of a shop steward or labour protection delegate come to an end shall also be agreed at this time.

Changes in the earnings of a chief shop steward and labour protection delegate shall correspond to changes in earnings occurring within the university.

Section 10 Compensation for loss of earnings

The time spent in performing co-operation functions during working hours by staff representatives who have been partially released from working duties proper shall be counted as their working time.

If representatives who do not fall within the scope of the working time system for teaching and research staff or training school teachers perform co-operation functions during their time off that were agreed with the employer's representative, then said time shall also be counted as their working time.

If a staff representative, pursuant to a special travel order of the university concerned, is sent on travel in Finland that is necessary for the performance of co-operation functions, then said representative shall be compensated for the costs of this travel in accordance with the agreed provisions on compensation for travelling expenses.

Application instruction: When the time taken in co-operation functions under paragraph 2 of section 10 is counted as working time, this shall mean that with respect to the time in question the employee concerned receives all of the compensations and bonuses for which said person otherwise qualifies under working time regulations.

Section 11 Fees of shop stewards and labour protection delegates

The following fees payable to a person serving as chief shop steward or shop steward have been agreed:

The fee of a shop steward as of 1 August 2020 (updated on 1 June 2021)

Employees represented	Monthly fee EUR Shop steward	Monthly fee EUR Chief shop steward
160–350	176.29	281.84
351–559	221.67	385.29
560 or more	280.63	487.69

The number of employees represented shall be verified at intervals of one academic year. The fee shall be counted into the salary under section 7 of chapter 1 of the collective agreement.

If, pursuant to a notice submitted to the employer, a deputy shop steward performs the duties of a shop steward who has been prevented from doing so for a continuous period of not less than two weeks, then the shop steward fee for the month in question shall be paid to said deputy shop steward who so deputises for the shop steward.

Comment: Training schools are subject to their own provisions on shop steward fees.

The fee of a labour protection delegate as of 1 August 2020 (updated on 1 June 2021)

The following separate labour protection delegate fee shall be paid to a labour protection delegate:

Employees represented	Monthly fee EUR
Fewer than 50	83.39
50–200	160.45
201–500	223.78
501–1,000	288.17
More than 1,000	351.51

When, pursuant to a notice submitted to the employer, the deputy for a labour protection delegate performs the duties of a labour protection delegate who has been prevented from doing so for a continuous period of not less than two weeks, then the compensation for the month in question shall be paid to said deputy instead of the labour protection delegate proper.

Section 12 Information to be provided to a shop steward

The shop steward shall be provided with all of the information and necessary documentation that is pertinent to resolving any case of confusion or dispute concerning the salary of an employee, or the application of legislation, regulations or agreements governing employment.

The university shall furnish the shop steward with all collective agreements, special protocols and other agreements, their application instructions, and the special regulations and instructions governing said university.

A chief shop steward or other corresponding shop stewards are entitled, at least annually, to receive details of staff numbers and changes therein within their own spheres of operation or workplaces, and of the number of temporary, part-time staff and outside staff working for the employer, and any changes therein.

A shop steward is entitled, not less than twice annually, to the following details of new temporary service relationships within the shop steward's own sphere of operation or workplace: the name, position and organisational unit of the person, the date when the service relationship commenced, the duration of the service relationship as known by the employer, and the grounds for temporary employment.

Section 13: Right to information on the remuneration system

The following arrangements shall apply unless other arrangements for informing the shop steward have been agreed locally:

Annually, and before engaging in salary negotiations, the chief shop steward and other shop stewards, with respect to their own spheres of operation or workplaces, shall be entitled to details in confidence concerning the placement in position requirement levels of staff falling within the scope of the salary system agreement, and to statistical details of the total salary of staff and changes therein, arranged by performance categories and performance percentages, staff group, and gender. Statistical information shall also be provided on the total number of both position requirement bonuses and performance bonuses and their gender breakdown by the evaluation system, as well as the total numbers separately, according to the position requirement level.

Under said circumstances and subject to said conditions, a shop steward shall also be entitled to details of the job descriptions and the job requirement evaluations and levels of the staff that the shop steward represents. However, provision of details pertaining to the grounds for and size of the personal salary element and to the total salary shall require the written consent of the person concerned.

The precise statistical information referred to in this section and the detailed manner of providing information shall be agreed between the parties hereto. The requirements of data protection shall be considered when providing the information referred to in this section. The information shall be released without charge.

Section 14 Access to information of staff representatives other than the shop steward

A staff representative shall be entitled to receive the information required for performing the duties of representative in the manner prescribed or agreed.

Comment: The information to be provided to staff representatives is prescribed in section 32 of the Act on Occupational Safety and Health Enforcement and Cooperation on Occupational Safety and Health at Workplaces, sections 22, 36 and 47 of the Act on Co-operation Within Undertakings, and section 6 of the Subscriber Liability Act.

Section 15 Premises and equipment

Having regard to conditions in the sector and to the extent and nature of the duties of the shop steward and labour protection delegate, said representatives shall be provided with suitable premises where they may keep any documents and office equipment that are required for attending to their co-operation functions. A place shall also be designated where the shop steward and labour protection delegate may conduct the discussions that are required in the course of their duties.

The shop steward and labour protection delegate may use the normal communication and office equipment of the university when performing their duties.

The shop steward and labour protection delegate shall agree on the practical arrangements referred to in this section with the employer's representative.

Application instruction: Normal office equipment shall also include the computer equipment and associated software (including Internet and e-mail connections) that are generally used in the university. The assessment may allow for such factors as the size of the university, the scope of duties of the shop steward or labour protection delegate, and the associated requirements and time taken for these duties.

Status of a staff representative

Section 16 Career advancement

The opportunities of persons elected to co-operation functions for personal development and professional advancement may not be impaired on account of said functions.

The employer and the shop steward or labour protection delegate must, also during the term of office of said representative, determine whether any training that is also arranged for other staff is required in order to maintain the skills of the representative with respect to the representative's previous or corresponding duties. Other staff involved in co-operation functions must also have an opportunity that is equitable with respect to other staff to take part in training that maintains and improves vocational skills.

Section 17 Training

Staff representatives engaged in co-operation functions shall, where possible, be given an opportunity to take part in training that will tend to enhance their competence in discharging said functions. Training shall otherwise comply with the agreed provisions governing trade union training.

When the term of office of a shop steward and labour protection delegate comes to an end, said representative and the employer shall jointly determine whether any vocational skills maintenance training is required in order for the representative to return to his or her previous position or to a corresponding position. The employer shall arrange any training that is required by said determination. When deciding the content of such training attention shall be paid to job release, to the length of the term of office served in co-operation functions, and to any changes in working methods that have occurred during said period.

Application instruction: After signing collective agreements the employer shall summon the shop steward and supervisors to joint sessions at which interpretations of the new agreements shall be examined together with any other issues pertaining to shop steward functions.

Comment: Under section 33 of the Act on Occupational Safety and Health Enforcement and Cooperation on Occupational Safety and Health at Workplaces, the employer and the labour protection delegate and deputy delegate must discuss the need for training and associated arrangements within two months of their election.

Section 18 Equitable treatment of staff representatives

Staff representatives shall not be disadvantaged with respect to other employees, or otherwise subjected to discrimination or coercion for attending to their duties.

Section 19 Security of employment

The employment contract of a shop steward, labour protection delegate or labour protection agent may not be rescinded or terminated with notice on account of said function.

Pay security and protection against transfer

A shop steward, labour protection delegate or labour protection agent may not be transferred to a position in which attendance to co-operation functions is materially hampered without the personal consent of said representative. The same shall also apply to transfers to positions or modifications in duties in which the salary factors of the applicable salary system are lower than those previously governing the representative's salary.

In the event that staff have to be transferred, efforts shall be made to ensure that an employee serving as labour protection delegate is the last to be transferred.

Transfer of business

The status of a chief shop steward and labour protection delegate shall continue as such, notwithstanding a transfer of business, if the transferred business or part thereof retains its independence. If a transferred business or part thereof loses its independence, then the chief shop steward and the labour protection delegate shall be entitled to the subsequent protection referred to in section 20 of this agreement as of the end of the term of office arising from the transfer of business.

Downsizing on grounds of finance and production

If employees of a university are laid off or made redundant, then said measure shall not apply to the chief shop steward or labour protection delegate unless it is jointly verified that no work can be offered to them that corresponds to their vocation or is otherwise suitable. A shop steward other than a chief shop steward may be dismissed or laid off in accordance with subsection 2 of section 10 of chapter 7 of the Employment Contracts Act only when the work of the shop steward entirely ends and the employer is unable to arrange work for the shop steward that corresponds to said employee's vocational skills or is otherwise suitable for said employee, or to arrange training for the employee for other duties in the manner referred to in section 4 of chapter 7 of said Act.

Individual protection

A shop steward, labour protection delegate or other staff representative involved in co-operation functions may not be dismissed for individual reasons pertaining to said employee without the consent of a majority of the staff represented by said elected official, as required by subsection 1 of section 10 of chapter 7 of the Employment Contracts Act.

The employment contract of a shop steward or labour protection delegate may not be rescinded or considered dissolved in a manner contrary to sections 1-3 of chapter 8 of the Employment Contracts Act.

A shop steward or labour protection delegate may not be disadvantaged with respect to other employees when assessing the grounds for rescinding the employment contract of said employee.

Section 20 Candidate and subsequent protection

The regulations of sections 18 and 19 of this agreement shall also be observed in applicable respects in relation to any candidate for the position of chief shop steward or shop steward who has been nominated by a union branch or association and whose candidacy the union branch or association has notified the employer of in writing, and in relation to any candidate for the position of labour protection delegate whose candidacy has been notified to the employer in writing.

Protection of candidates shall nevertheless begin no sooner than three months before the start of the term of office of the representative to be elected and shall expire with respect to a candidate who is not elected when the outcome of the election has been verified.

These regulations shall also apply to an employee who has served as a chief shop steward, shop steward and as a labour protection delegate for a period of eight months after said duties come to an end.

Section 21 Compensation for unfounded termination of the employment contract of a shop steward and labour protection delegate

If the employment contract of a shop steward or labour protection delegate has been terminated in a manner contrary to these regulations, then the employer shall pay compensation of no less than 10 months' and no more than 30 months' salary to the person concerned. The compensation shall be determined according to the principles set out in subsection 2 of section 2 of chapter 12 of the Employment Contracts Act. Infringement of rights under these regulations shall be considered a factor that increases the compensation payable.

Compensation for unfounded lay-off under this agreement shall be determined according to subsection 1 of section 1 of chapter 12 of the Employment Contracts Act.

AGREEMENT PROVISIONS ON TRADE UNION TRAINING

Section 1 General

Trade union training denotes training arranged by staff organisations for their membership pertaining to co-operation between the employer and said organisations or improvement in the operating conditions of these organisations. The employer subsidises trade union training that promotes the foregoing co-operation in the manner specified below.

Application instruction: In addition to training arranged by the organisations to improve co-operation skills, the employer and the organisations may collaborate where necessary to plan and implement training for the same purpose according to the needs of a specific university. Jointly planned training shall be arranged either as staff training, or a division of costs between the employer and the organisations shall be specially agreed for each course.

The staff development plans for a university shall allow for the training needs of shop stewards, the head of labour protection and labour protection delegates, and other staff engaged in co-operation functions.

Section 2 Training committee

The parties to the collective agreement shall appoint a joint training committee for the purpose of training matters, to which no more than two representatives shall be appointed from each signatory federation.

The training committee shall approve the courses referred to in this training agreement for one calendar year at a time. Courses may also be approved during the calendar year when necessary.

Before approving a course, the training committee shall be given an account of its teaching programme, time, venue, target group, and participants, and any other details that the training committee may request. A jointly verified educational need shall be a condition of approving a course. The training committee shall have an opportunity to monitor teaching on approved courses.

The principal organisations that are parties hereto shall announce the courses approved by the training committee for the coming year no later than two months before the first course begins.

Section 3 Trade union training

In this agreement trade union training shall denote shop steward training, labour protection training and co-operation training.

Shop steward training improves the competence of a shop steward in discharging the functions of this elected position and thereby promotes the objectives of shop steward activities.

Labour protection training improves the co-operation required by the Act on Occupational Safety and Health Enforcement and Cooperation on Occupational Safety and Health at Workplaces (44/2006) and agreements concluded pursuant thereto, and thereby promotes achievement of the assigned objectives of labour protection activities.

Co-operation training improves the conditions for co-operation between the management and staff of a university, thereby promoting in-house co-operation.

Section 4 Entitlement to trade union training and maximum amounts of training

Representatives serving in shop steward, labour protection and other co-operation functions and their deputies, and the chairperson of a union branch or association may take part in trade union training that is necessary for attending to their fiduciary or co-operation functions.

The training may last for no longer than a total of 18 working days in a calendar year for a shop steward, and no longer than a total of 10 working days in a calendar year for other elected representatives engaged in co-operation functions.

Comment: The reckoning of course days shall comply with the previous interpretation.

When deciding on participation in training the university shall consider the training requirements for the person's co-operation function. Participation shall also be considered in relation to the content of training and the relevant duties, and not merely on the basis of the person's formal status in the co-operation system.

Trade union training may also be arranged either wholly or partly online.

An applicant for trade union training shall be required to furnish the employer with the programme for the training event in question or some other account of the matters to be covered at said event.

Application instruction: The staff representatives referred to in paragraph 1 above shall be entitled to participate in courses approved by the training committee if the need for training is jointly verified by the employer and the course applicant, and participation in the course can be arranged without substantially inconveniencing the employer.

On the foregoing grounds, the employer shall be entitled to postpone participation in the training for not longer than 6 months. In the case of recurrent training arranged at intervals exceeding six months, participation may be postponed until no later than the time at which the next corresponding training event is arranged.

Section 5 Applications for training

The employee shall request job release for the purpose of participating in training. The application must be submitted no later than two weeks before the start of any training event lasting no longer than five days, and no later than six weeks before the start of any training event of longer duration.

Section 6 Financial benefits for training

The employee shall be paid salary in accordance with section 7 of chapter 1 of the collective agreement for the period of participation in training referred to in section 3 above.

Application instruction: In principle the employer shall be required to pay compensation only once to the same person for the same training event or for a training event of comparable content.

Before a person takes part in the training referred to in section 3 above, the measures arising from said participation shall be agreed with the employer and the question of whether the training event is one for which the employee is entitled to compensation for lost earnings under this agreement shall be specifically ascertained in advance. The compensation period shall likewise be determined.

The employee is entitled to receive course reimbursement to cover the expenses caused by the training, the size of which for a two-day or longer courses is 55 euros for each day as defined in the course program. For one-day training the reimbursement is half of the total amount of the course reimbursement. The reimbursement is paid directly to the training organizer.

Application instruction: The payment basis for the course reimbursement is the number of training days specified in the training programs. In addition to the course reimbursement no other costs will be compensated.

Section 7 Trade union training time counted as working time

The time taken in trade union training shall count as working time in the manner agreed in working time regulations.

Section 8 Trade union training not referred to in this agreement

The time limits prescribed in section 5 governing applications for training shall be observed when seeking unpaid job release for trade union training not referred to in this agreement.

Application instruction: No provisions have been agreed whereby training that improves the operating conditions of organisations would constitute training eligible for job release. Job release may be granted for said training at the employer's discretion. Applications for such training shall also comply with the time limits governing other trade union training referred to in this agreement. Any job release that is granted for such training shall nevertheless be counted as time spent in the training referred to in paragraph 2 of section 4 of this agreement.

Examples of such courses include courses for association treasures and secretaries, and courses on subjects such as committee procedure.

AGREEMENT ON LOCAL COLLECTIVE BARGAINING

Section 1: Local collective bargaining

This section shall apply to regulations of the collective agreement permitting local collective bargaining within the limits specified in said agreement.

Unless otherwise stipulated in the pertinent regulation of the collective agreement, the negotiating parties of an agreement concluded through local collective bargaining shall be the chief shop steward and the employer's representative.

Section 2: Agreement on derogations from the collective agreement

Derogations from the regulations of the collective agreement may be locally agreed where a justified reason so requires.

A local agreement may be concluded within statutory limits. No local agreement may be concluded, however, to set aside the whole of the collective agreement or any essential part thereof such as the salary or working time scheduling system, unless otherwise separately stipulated in the collective agreement (for example in regards to the salary system in subsection 7 of section 2 of chapter 6).

The parties to the agreement shall be the employer and the chief shop steward or the shop steward representing the individuals affected by the matter in question or the relevant registered local association under the organisation that is party to the collective agreement.

The bargaining partners shall be determined before the negotiations commence.

A proposal for a local agreement shall specify the point of the collective agreement upon which agreement is sought and shall give reasons for the desired derogation.

Section 3: Derogation from minimum standards governing salaries and other financial benefits

A local derogation from the collective agreement with respect to the minimum standards governing salaries or other financial benefits may be agreed upon in the manner specified in this section.

The prerequisite for an agreement is the existence of a financial crisis that could lead to the reduction in labour use. Agreements can be used when the activities of a university and the university's handling of its duties in accordance with the Universities Act are endangered due to a weakened financial situation that threatens the university's activities and jobs. At the beginning of the negotiation, the local agreeing parties shall unanimously define the situation that has led to the initiation of the negotiations for reaching a local agreement.

A local agreement that is in accordance with this section must encompass all staff that are included in the scope of application of the collective agreement.

When negotiating an agreement of the kind referred to in this section the employer shall comply with the provisions of the Act on Co-operation Within Undertakings concerning the provision of necessary information in negotiations. The parties may call upon the assistance of specialists if necessary. The staff representatives are provided with up-to-date information on the university's financial situation, including its financial statement, budget, investment plan, as well as other documents that describe the financial situation of the employer in adequate enough detail.

During the negotiations that are conducted in accordance with this section, the amount of job release for those staff representatives who participate in the local negotiations and other matters related to their post are agreed upon while taking into account the amount of extra work caused by their shop steward duties. The staff representatives must be provided with enough opportunities for participating in the negotiations while taking into account the agreement as a whole that is under negotiation and the demands that it places on the contents of the negotiations.

Section 4: The form and content of an agreement

The agreement must include at least the following:

- the purpose of the agreement
- the parties to the agreement
- the collective agreement provision in question
- the justifications for derogating from the provision
- the detailed content of the agreement
- the terms of validity and termination of the agreement
- the date and signatures

Section 5: The validity, termination and legal effects of a local agreement

An agreement may be concluded for a fixed period or until further notice.

An agreement that is made in accordance with section 3 of this agreement can be made for a fixed-term period of one year and it can be renewed for one year at a time if the prerequisites for making the agreement still exist after the time limit and this is jointly confirmed by the agreeing parties. During the period of validity of the agreement, the employer may not, in accordance with chapter 7, section 3 of the Employment Contracts Act, terminate employment relationships at the university or, in accordance with chapter 5, section 2 of the Employment Contracts Act, temporarily dismiss university employees.

If the parties of the agreement that is in accordance with section 3 jointly state that the financial crisis that presented the prerequisite for the agreement has passed and that there is no longer a financial need for the agreement, the agreement can be terminated during its period of validity and the financial benefits are then returned to be in accordance with the collective agreement beginning on the following calendar month after the termination of the agreement that is in accordance with section 3.

An agreement concluded until further notice may be terminated at three months' notice unless some other period of notice has been agreed upon.

Any agreement other than specified in section 3 that is concluded for a fixed period exceeding three years shall after three years be open to termination in the same way as an agreement concluded until further notice.

After a local agreement has expired, the regulations of the general collective agreement and legislation in force shall be observed.
A local agreement shall have the same legal effects as the collective agreement. A local agreement of the kind referred to in sections 2 and 3 of this agreement shall be submitted for approval to the signatories of the collective agreement, and an agreement that is done in accordance with section 3 shall also be submitted to the labour administration.

Section 6: The interpretation of an agreement and the settlement of disputes

Disputes over the interpretation of this agreement and of local agreements that are based thereupon shall be settled in the same way as disputes over the collective agreement.

Section 7: Validity

This agreement shall remain in force for the duration of the general collective agreement for universities, pursuant to which this agreement was concluded.

Local agreements concluded during the validity of this agreement shall nevertheless remain in force for their agreed duration.

Appendix 2 JOB REQUIREMENT SCHEME FOR OTHER STAFF

The job requirement scheme is applied for assessing the requirement of duties performed by staff other than teaching and research staff. The scheme applies to duties involving implementation of development and investigation projects that are not equivalent to basic scientific research (at supplementary education centres or corresponding units, for example). The scheme is also applied to duties that involve minimal research but do not fundamentally constitute research duties proper.

The use of foreign languages in the requirement scheme refers to duties in which the employee has to use more than one language.

Optional factors at the same levels within requirement factors are referred to with the word "or". The lists presented are not exhaustive, but serve as examples, meaning that there is no need to meet all of the points in the work assessed.

The typical education referred to in the knowledge and skills levels as a condition of ability should not be understood as a condition of eligibility, but refers to the conditions on which ability at each level is usually based.

The duties assessed may include responsibilities (such as supervisory or financial responsibility) that are not specified in rules of procedure or standing orders. In such cases the responsibilities must nevertheless be specified more clearly in the job description.

Work in difficult and dangerous conditions may be taken into account when determining the job requirement.

Ability in specialist librarian duties as of requirement level 8 is typically based on studies in information science. For employees working in specialist librarian duties, studies in information science will typically form part of a university degree or they will be information science studies completed in addition to another university degree.

Appendix 3 PERSONAL PERFORMANCE EVALUATION SYSTEM FOR TEACHING AND RESEARCH STAFF

The personal performance evaluation system comprises the procedures for evaluating the performance of individuals, the associated evaluation factors and the evaluation scale. The impact of personal performance on the personal salary element is stipulated in the collective agreement.

The evaluation is an important element in the work of supervisors and staff administration, and in interaction between individual employees and their supervisors. A successful evaluation requires careful preparation.

1. Personal performance evaluation

The personal salary element is based on how individual employees have performed the duties assigned to them in a work plan or in some other corresponding manner. An evaluation of personal performance and merits will allow for the operating environment and for the nature and scope of international activities and interaction that the job requires.

The personal performance of teaching and research staff is evaluated as an overall assessment in relation to the work plan. The performance criteria applicable to the individual are determined on the basis of duties, having regard to any individual facts concerning the particular university in question. If the duties of an individual involve only teaching or only research, then performance will be evaluated solely on the basis of these duties.

The evaluation is performed as a joint overall assessment with respect to all main criteria, on which basis the person's placement in the performance category and personal performance percentage shall be determined.

The merits associated with personal performance are collated and documented over at least the past two years to serve as the basis for evaluation. Any specific criteria applied at individual universities must be determined before beginning the performance evaluation.

The teaching and research staff member will list his or her job-related merits (publications, pedagogical merits etc.) before the evaluation discussion. The supervisor will review the merits and apply them when formulating a proposed evaluation of performance, performance category, and performance percentage. Reasons shall be given in particular for unusual job performance evaluations that satisfy the position requirements.

The employer will thereafter, in accordance with the evaluation practice of the university, evaluate performance by comparing the merits for positions with the merit levels of other employees working in corresponding fields, in the same job requirement groups, and in positions of a corresponding type. In other words, the merits of an employee working at a certain level will be compared to the merits of other employees working in positions with equivalent requirements.

If the outcome of the evaluation does not accord with the employee's own view of his or her performance, then the employee will enter his or her own view and the reasons for it in the evaluation summary.

2. The evaluation criteria / factors

The main criteria of personal performance evaluation for teaching and research staff are:

- 1. Pedagogical merit
- 2. Research merit
- 3. University community and social merit

Personal performance is evaluated in relation to duties and to the work plan or to objectives assigned in some other corresponding manner.

2.1. Pedagogical merit

Examples of factors to be considered when evaluating the pedagogical merits of an employee:

- teaching skills
- pedagogical competence and training, and its application in teaching
- other acquired competence benefiting teaching and skills gained through teaching experience
- enhancement of teaching and participation in general teaching development duties
- student counselling, progress of studies and degrees completed by students
- creation of teaching materials
- participation in international teaching
- receipt of awards and distinctions related to teaching
- creation, maintenance and participation in networks related to teaching

2.2. Research merit

Examples of factors to be considered when evaluating the research merits of an employee:

- academic or artistic publications (especially refereed publications)
- international research collaboration
- counselled postgraduate studies and doctoral theses
- procurement and management of external funding
- acquired academic or artistic qualifications (degrees or adjunct professorships)
- academic or artistic specialist duties (serving as doctoral dissertation opponent, issuing statements)
- esteem earned in the academic or university community
- receipt of awards and distinctions related to academic or artistic activities
- artistic merit will also be considered under guidelines for the individual university.

Evaluation of the research merits of doctoral students will consider progress in the thesis under the plan of research and other success in preparing the thesis (dissertation, etc.).

2.3. University community and social merit

Examples of factors to be considered when evaluating the university community and social merits of an employee:

- commitment to work and workplace

- participation in university community duties
- co-operation skills
- co-operation with stakeholders to the extent required by the position
- specialist duties in society

Employees working in supervisory capacities will be evaluated for success and improvement in supervisory and leadership work (including participation in supervisory and leadership training), for supervisory skills in general, and for the ability to serve as an academic leader. The evaluation will consider how the supervisor supports, encourages and motivates employees to achieve their objectives and how the supervisor fosters a positive, effective and productive workplace.

An evaluation will also be made of overall economy and care in the use of resources in all functions falling with the employee's sphere of responsibility.

3. The evaluation scale

The performance categories applied shall be determined as follows:

Performance category IV The employee's performance is excellent and clearly exceeds all position requirements and the quantitative and qualitative objectives assigned to the employee.

Performance category III The employee's performance satisfies all position requirements very well. The performance exceeds the quantitative and qualitative objectives assigned to the employee in some respects.

Performance category II The employee's performance satisfies the requirements of the position well, and most of the objectives assigned to the employee. Performance attains a high quality standard in key fields of duty.

Performance category I The employee's performance satisfies the basic position requirements and some of the objectives assigned to the employee. Some aspects of performance are nevertheless in need of improvement.

Appendix 4 PERSONAL PERFORMANCE EVALUATION SYSTEM FOR OTHER STAFF

The personal performance evaluation system comprises the procedures for evaluating the performance of individuals, the associated evaluation factors and the evaluation scale. The impact of personal performance on the personal salary element is stipulated in the collective agreement.

The evaluation discussion is an important element in the work of supervisors and staff administration, and in interaction between individual employees and their supervisors. A successful evaluation discussion requires careful preparation. Individual employees may prepare for it, for example, by evaluating their own performance in advance. Both parties must set aside time for the discussion away from the distraction of other duties.

1. Personal performance evaluation

The personal performance of an employee is evaluated in the course of an evaluation discussion. The evaluation focuses on the performance of individual employees in the duties assigned in their job descriptions and otherwise by the employer, and on the objectives assigned for the employee in the previous performance appraisal or in some other corresponding manner.

The job performance of an individual is evaluated with respect to the three main criteria specified below. Sub-criteria are used for assessing each main criterion, but are not evaluated independently.

A supervisor will evaluate the employee's performance. The supervisor records the outcome of the evaluation and its grounds, and these are communicated to the employee. On the basis of the evaluation s/he has completed, the supervisor shall make a proposal for the performance category and performance percentage. If the outcome of the evaluation does not agree with the employee's own view of his/her performance, the employee will enter his/her own view, including the justifications. The performance category and performance percentage will be confirmed by the employer in relation to such factors as the grounds for the performance evaluation, the general evaluation policy, and the performance of employees working in duties observing the equivalent position requirements.

Reasons shall be given in particular for unusual job performance evaluations that satisfy the position requirements.

2. The evaluation criteria / factors

The main criteria of personal performance evaluation for other staff are:

2.1 Professional competence

Skills, evaluated with reference to such factors as

- overall command of the employee's duties; knowledge, skills, methods and tools
- maintenance of professional skills
- ability to focus on essentials

Personal development, evaluated with reference to such factors as

- how the employee responds to new challenges and ideas, and views new duties and practices
- an active role in improving the job
- how the employee improves personal skills

Plurality of skills/special ability, evaluated with reference to such factors as

- whether the employee has skills exceeding the employee's own basic duties that benefit the workplace, or some special ability or expertise
- general diversity of the employee's skills or some special ability that benefits the workplace

2.2. Responsibility at work and activity in the workplace

Initiative, evaluated with reference to such factors as

- how spontaneous the employee is in his/her work
- how the employee takes the initiative in improving working methods and the workplace

Co-operation skills, evaluated with reference to such factors as

- how the employee co-operates at the workplace, and with external parties and stakeholders
- how the employee promotes community and a positive atmosphere
- how the employee deals with conflict

Commitment to work and colleagues/co-workers, evaluated with reference to such factors as

- how the employee participates in improving the workplace
- how the employee adheres to mutually agreed practices
- how the employee is committed to duties and to the aims of the employee's workplace
- the extent of the employee's involvement in discharging university community functions

Employees working in supervisory capacities will be evaluated for success and improvement in supervisory and leadership work (including participation in supervisory and leadership training) and for supervisory skills in general. The evaluation will consider how the supervisor supports, encourages and motivates employees to achieve their objectives and how the supervisor fosters a positive, effective and productive workplace.

Productivity, evaluated with reference to such factors as

- achievement of, for example, quantitative objectives or deadlines imposed on the employee

Quality of work, evaluated with reference to such factors as

- quality of work in relation to the demands and goals of duties

Economy, evaluated with reference to such factors as

- overall economy in discharging duties
- careful use of resources

3. The evaluation scale

The performance categories applied shall be determined as follows:

Performance category IV The employee's performance is excellent and clearly exceeds all position requirements and the quantitative and qualitative objectives assigned to the employee.

Performance category III The employee's performance satisfies all position requirements very well. The performance exceeds the quantitative and qualitative objectives assigned to the employee in some respects.

Performance category II The employee's performance satisfies the requirements of the position well, and most of the objectives assigned to the employee. Performance attains a high quality standard in key fields of duty.

Performance category I The employee's performance satisfies the basic position requirements and some of the objectives assigned to the employee. Some aspects of performance are nevertheless in need of improvement.
